TOKYO 2020

NEERAJ CHOPRA, THE HISTORY MAKER
Track and field events have tradionally been regarded as the Olympics' most prestigious programme. For Indians, it was always elusive. But a 23-year-old changed all of it by finishing in the podium for the first time ever

IN GOLD COMPANY WITH BINDRA
The javelin thrower is only the second from India to win individual gold in Independent India's history. Shooter Abhinav Bindra was the first to achieve the feat, winning gold at the Beijing Olympics in 2008

BIG GAME BEAST
Neeraj has a history of dominating big-ticket events. He is now Olympics, CWG and Asian Games champion

BEST EVER TALLY
With 7 medals, this is India's best-ever show at Olympics. Previous best was in London 2012 with 6 medals

I'LL RETURN HURT OR WITH A MEDAL: BAJRANG TO WIFE

FIROZ MIRZA @Chennai

ON the mat he is a different beast but off it Bajrang Punia is as human as us. He has emotions and he feels. He was so distraught after losing his semifinal bout to Haji Aliyev of Azerbaijan that he called his wife Sangeeta Phogat. And his conversation veered around that loss and the strapping around his injured knee. He told her, rather emotionally, "I will either return from mat badly hurt or with a medal." He had decided to remove the strapping because it was distracting him.

"The injury he suffered during his Russia stint before Olympics definitely troubled him at the Games. But you must have watched that his right knee was not strapped like Friday. The reason why he didn't strap his knee was he doesn't want to blame injury if he fails to secure a medal. Besides, strapping distract you and take focus back on the injury. It makes an athlete overcautious as he/she keeps thinking about it and plays defensively to avoid further injury, which exactly is not Bajrang's way of competing," added Sangeeta, who herself is a 2018 Asian Championship bronze medallist.

Sangeeta admitted the knee injury forced Bajrang to change his tactics at the Games. "He changed his style in the first bout against Kyrgyzstan's Emazar Akmataliev which he won. You cannot commit mistakes at that level. He played defensively and did it brilliantly. He didn't get much time before the second bout as he got on the mat within 15 minutes of the opening bout but he won."

Sangeeta, youngest of the famed Phogat sisters, was flooded with calls after Bajrang secured his first Olympic medal.

With a gigantic throw, Neeraj Chopra achieves what no Indian has ever done before, clinches Olympic gold in track and field

INDRANEEL DAS @Chennai

NEERAJ Chopra. The name will be immortalised in the annals of Indian sport. The man himself seemed to know it as soon as the second throw left his hand. The way he immediately turned towards the stands, both arms raised towards the heavens, betrayed both elation and relief. 87.58m. Even his first throw — 87.03m — was good for gold.

Gold in javelin throw! India's Tokyo Games couldn't have ended in a better way; two medals – wrestler Bajrang Punia won a bronze 90 minutes before Neeraj's – in one day. A best-ever haul with seven medals, including a gold. And that gold — in athletics where India has never been able to make a mark — is perhaps the biggest achievement Indian sport has ever witnessed.

The spear Neeraj threw pierced through years of disillusionment that a medal-deprived country had to endure. It sailed over an era of underachievement and inconsequentiality, as dark as the Tokyo sky that silently egged it on, and broke ground in a new land of promise. No matter where you were born or what sport you pursued, the spear carried with it hope and belief.

Neeraj Chopra with the gold medal on Saturday | PTI

This is not India's first individual gold; Abhinav Bindra brought that home thirteen years ago. But athletics is the grandest of stages at the Olympics. There are no freak wins here, not in athletics. The legendary Milkha Singh and the indomitable P T Usha came close but a medal never hung around their necks because of the slimmest of margins. Neeraj exorcised their demons.

Like most Olympic athletes, Neeraj is a product of a vibrant hinterland. Hailing from Khandra near Panipat, he comes from a farming background but not a struggling one. His only target was to throw the javelin as far as he could. On Saturday, he did just that, with the world as witness.

Calmness defines Neeraj. But on another level, he is also an amalgamation of human endurance, grit and scientific training. His elbow was sore and he lost the whole of 2019 due to injury and recuperation. He made a comeback and managed to secure an Olympic quota in January last year. For Neeraj, the postponement of the Games was a boon. That extra time gave him enough to chisel those rough edges. Working closely with Klaus Bartonietz, he focused on his Olympic dream. One good trait is he listens and ponders over every detail. When it comes to planning, he follows it to a T. It's apparent that Batonietz played a critical role, the 23-year-old, who now holds the Olympics, Commonwealth Games and the Asian Games titles, said so himself. "It's (javelin) a very technical sport," he said after the final. "I improved gradually, corrected my weaknesses. He (Bartonietz) has a lot of experience working with athletes. He understands techniques well, he also understands my body. He has worked with javelin throwers in different countries." He has made Neeraj not only understand himself better but has made him into a more complete athlete. And little things like going off his phone contributed to it. It also included no ad shoots or commercial commitments despite a few approaches. Like his coaching team says, he was so focused that all these things did not matter to him.

What makes Neeraj a special athlete even among special athletes is that he has that bit of swag in him, he isn't one to be overawed by the situation. He doesn't care for reputation. His second throw is testament to that. It also put down an important marker to the rest of the 12 man field. It was his way of telling them 'catch me if you can'. "It was important, a good distance will put more pressure on the other athletes," he said. "After second attempt, I knew that this was my best throw. I could not have thought about gold at that stage as I was thinking of improving my throws."

Neeraj's story is not about building roads or laying electric lines in his village. Nor is it about finding a job. It transcends them all. Maybe one day, when this nation has completed its journey from also-rans to serious challengers of the sporting world, a future historian will pause on Saturday and assert that this was where it all began. It could very well be the first shot of a sporting revolution. But Neeraj has done his bit. Now it's up to the rest of the nation.

B'luru's Aditi misses medal, wins hearts

ASHIM SUNAM @Bengaluru

'SO close, yet so far'. It more or less sums up Aditi Ashok's campaign at the Tokyo Olympics. Heading into the fourth and final round on Saturday, the Bengaluru golfer was placed second, but the medal eluded her at the end of the day as she dropped to fourth after carding a three-under 68.

It was heartbreak for the 23-year-old, especially after her consistent display on the first three days. That had raised the hopes of a nation for a surprise medal from a golfer ranked 200 in the world in women's golf. Aditi finished one shot behind Japan's Mone Inami (silver) and New Zealand's Lydia Ko (bronze). Nelly Korda of the USA clinched gold. She might not return home with a medal, but has definitely won hearts and earned respect in the world of golf. P18

K'TAKA FIRST STATE TO IMPLEMENT NEP

Karnataka on Saturday became the first State in the country to implement the National Education Policy-2020, which will come into effect from this academic year itself (2020-21). Higher Education Minister Dr Ashwath Narayan, on his first day at office, called a meeting of senior officials and passed the order. It will be implemented as per NEP guidelines, he added. P9

AFTER much delay, portfolio allocation in Karnataka was completed on Saturday morning. Much like his predecessor BS Yediyurappa, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai retained the coveted Bengaluru Development portfolio along with Finance, Intelligence from Home Department, DPAR and all unallocated portfolios.

In a big push for a debutante minister, Araga Jnanendra has been given the Home Ministry -- the portfolio previously held by Bommai. Many of the ministers retained from Yediyurappa's council of ministers have been allowed to keep their previous portfolios, while some have been given downsized ministries. Former deputy chief minister Govind Karjol has been reassigned the portfolio of major and medium irrigation, while KS Eshwarappa and R Ashoka will continue to hold the Rural Development and Panchayat Raj and Revenue portfolios, respectively. V Somanna will retain Housing, while B Sriramulu has been given charge of Transport along with the newly created ST Welfare Department. Being the lone minister from the Scheduled Tribe community, Sriramulu has been given charge of the newly formed secretariat, but he is said to be miffed with losing the big-ticket Social Welfare Department.

Murugesh Nirani, who lost out in the chief minister's race, has been given the coveted Large and Medium-Scale Industries portfolio. Nirani, himself a successful industrialist, is said to have lobbied hard for the department. Former deputy chief minister Dr CN Ashwath Narayan will retain his higher education, IT & BT, Science and Technology and Skill Development portfolios, while Umesh Katti has been given Food and Civil Supplies and Forest.

RAILWAY TO HEAVEN

Picture-perfect Karwar Railway Station has wowed visitors and netizens alike, has turned into a must-visit spot on many bucket lists

PIC: ROSHAN KANADE

IT'S A WINNER!

The prized station frame (in pic) shot Roshan Kanade to fame. He is now much sought after and has been offered jobs by various travel companies and an Italian apparel firm, to shoot for them!

THE VISTADOME JOURNEY

A train journey through the Western Ghats is a tourist's delight, running through several tunnels and past scenic spots, like the Dudhsagar falls. To draw bigger crowds, Konkan Railway has introduced Vistadome coaches, with revolving seats, wide glass windows and roof, giving a 360-degree view of the journey. The Vistadome service has already begun between Mangaluru and Bengaluru, and will soon be extended to Uttara Kannada.

We are proud of our railway station. It is very popular and draws people from far and near. Whenever Karwar Railway Station is mentioned, people say they want to visit it as it's very beautiful. We will do our best to retain it as a green scenic spot, with minimal interference —B B Nikam, Regional Railway Manager

SUBHASH CHANDRA NS @Karwar

IN June 2018, Roshan Kanade, a student of Government Arts and Science College, Karwar, and his friend Shivraj Borkar visited the railway station to click a few pictures, and posted them on the internet for a lark. Soon, the pictures became a big hit on social media. Today, Karwar Railway Station, on the Konkan Railway line, is one of the most photographed spots in Uttara Kannada.

Kanade had always wanted to shoot the railway station, set amid a backdrop of green mountains disappearing into fog. "I used to visit the station very often, and decided to click some pictures. It was afternoon. I waited for a train to emerge from a tunnel, and clicked. I posted a few pictures on Facebook, Instagram and other social media sites. The response I got was tremendous. The picture went viral and is still going viral," he laughs.

Kanade photographed the same location again in 2019, and that too was a hit. He rues that today, electricity poles have been installed on either side of the station, marring the look. "Despite that, the location is mesmerising," he concedes.

The station has garnered global attention too, with Erik Solheim, Norwegian diplomat and former politician, tweeting, "Amazing green! This must be one of the greenest Railway Stations in India... and the world? Karwar in Karnataka." Solheim is a member of the Green Party and is Executive Director of the United Nations Environment Programme.

The railway station is located at Shirwada, about 6km from Karwar — a pretty coastal town with boats bobbing in the bay, the Edapally-Panvel highway (NH-17) running just metres away from the beach. Straight out of a storybook.

"The station is a gift of the monsoon. It stands out due to the green in the backdrop. The lush jungle and contrasting railway line make it a treat for the eye," said Shivakumar Haragi, Assistant Professor, Department of Marine Biology, Karnataka University, Dharwad.

PIC: SUBHASH CHANDRA NS

The picturesque station appears to emerge from the towering thick Western Ghats around, making it postcard-worthy. A foot overbridge which leads to the second platform is the spot most favoured by photographers to take a wide-angle shot of the station. It draws hundreds of photographers every monsoon, and is a selfie hotspot with students too. The greenery lasts about 6-8 months a year, until the summer dries up the vegetation around. Light showers, and a green carpet begins to spread again...

It is a relatively new railway station with two platforms, linking a number of regions to the Uttara Kannada coast, and was constructed after several hurdles. Though the survey for the station was done way back in 1920s during the British regime, construction began only in the late 1980s when senior Janata Dal leader George Fernandes became Railway Minister.

Fernandes, from Mangaluru, was the driving force behind Konkan Railway, which was to link his home town with Karwar and parts of coastal Maharashtra. Construction of this scenic railway line was a big challenge, as it bisects the Western Ghats, the tracks running over bridges built over valleys and several rivers, and through a number of tunnels through the mountains. At Karwar, the station passes through the Kali river valley.

The people of Karwar credit the railway connectivity to former Chief Minister Ramakrishna Hegde and former Finance Minister Madhu Dandavate, besides Fernandes.

THE KALAM-KARI ARTIST

The art is in the details for budding teen artist Shivaraj Rathod, whose meticulous work is creating waves on social media platforms

PRAKASH SAMAGA @Udupi

ONE day in 2017, Laxmi Rathod was visiting a temple fair where a packet of pens caught her eye. Acting on maternal instinct, she bought the packet for her son Shivaraj, then aged 12. Little did she know that her boy would create magic with the pens that cost her Rs 5 each.

Five years on, Shivaraj has become quite a sensation on social media platforms, especially on YouTube, where he has garnered a viewership of over 53,000 in less than a year. In September 2020, he had posted 106 reels showcasing his artworks on the YouTube channel, Shivaraj the Artist.

Inspired by the lush green landscape he sees every day from his tiny house in Kalya area of Kaup taluk of Udupi district, Shivaraj has taken to recreate nature. He creates surreal sketches, and has the ability to draw a wide variety of anatomically correct pictures.

He dedicates the night hours to draw the primary sketch, and fills in the details and shades during the day.

He spends nearly three hours completing one piece of art using a pen, and needs an extra hour for pencil sketches. Explaining the intricacies of his art, Shivaraj says, "When I use a pen, my mind has a clear picture, and I am aware that I don't have a chance to redo it. Pencil gives me a chance to erase and redraw, so the process of drawing gets longer."

The artist in him was born when he was in Grade 8 at Anandathirtha High School in Kaup, though it didn't happen overnight. Shivaraj said it took him a week to complete his first pencil sketch. "Though I started doing pencil and pen sketches on my own, I joined a drawing class to learn the rudiments of art and drawing," says the second-year PU student.

Shivaraj enrolled for drawing grade lower examination conducted by the Karnataka Secondary Education Examination Board in November 2019, and came out with flying colours, scoring 504 out of 600 marks. Shivaraj plans to write the drawing higher grade examination next.

So far, Shivaraj has created over 200 pictures using pen or pencil, while his Instagram handle — shivaraj003157 — has a wide collection of artworks. Shivaraj says he will now focus on nature. "Without any reference photographs, I can visualise nature and replicate it in my drawings," he says modestly.

Laxmi, who ekes out a living by supplying food to working people in and around Kaup, had different plans for her son, until she realised his passion for art. "My knowledge was limited so I frequently told him to forgo his passion and concentrate on his studies. But his drawings convinced me that he's gifted with a unique talent," she says. His future lies in art, she adds.

The proud mother has her favourites among the drawings: the sketch of drops of water splashing out of a cup, almost wave-like; an anatomically detailed drawing of an owl with a touch of artistic elegance; and the one of dog in pencil.

Having completed his primary schooling in Goa, Shivaraj's family shifted to Kaup, continuing his education at Anandathirtha Vidyalaya, Pajaka, Udupi.

He fondly recalls how his principal Geetha S Kotian supported his art.

Vijay P Rao, principal at Anandathirtha PU College, told TNSE that Shivaraj has all the hallmarks of becoming a great artist. Explaining how non-fungible tokens (NFTs) have brought value to art pieces on digital platforms and markets, Rao said, "Shivaraj has the patience and perseverance to create these breathtaking sketches and it will help him carve out a career with his unique skill."

Meanwhile, Shivaraj who has not yet displayed his artwork at any exhibition, eagerly awaits an opportunity that will give him a platform to reach out to a wider audience.

Even Covid-positive moms can breastfeed their babies: Docs

IFFATH FATHIMA @Bengaluru

THE pandemic has been tough for pregnant and lactating women, with many afraid of transmitting Covid-19 to their babies. During the World Breastfeeding Week, health professionals, who noticed a decline in breastfeeding rate, have been creating awareness on the issue and informing mothers that Covid doesn't get transmitted through breast milk.

Former Indian Cricketer Sunil Joshi's wife, Dr Ravneet Joshi, who is a lactation consultant at Manipal hospital, Bengaluru, has been creating awareness among her patients about the same and is even conducting seminars to educate others.

"Breast milk has antibodies that give babies a healthy boost and protect them from many infections. Antibodies and bioactive factors in breast milk may also fight against Covid infection," she added.

She said it is safe for a mother to breastfeed even if she is infected or suspected to be Covid-positive. "Mothers can continue breastfeeding with appropriate precautions. These include wearing a medical mask if available, washing hands with soap and water or with an alcohol-based hand rub before and after touching the baby, and routinely cleaning and disinfecting surfaces they have touched. Only the chest needs to be washed, if the mother has coughed on it," she said.

Rashi Chawla, who was Covid-positive during the third month of her pregnancy, said she was in constant fear of transmitting Covid-19 to her baby. "I had to ensure that appropriate precautions were taken while feeding her," she added.

Meanwhile, with the recent ongoing covid vaccination drives, lactating mothers are even sceptical of breastfeeding their child after getting the jab. "The WHO and Government of India says that lactating women can receive the vaccine and mothers should continue breastfeeding their babies." said Dr Ravneet. Breastfeeding can increase the IQ level of a baby to 100 times, say doctors. "There is definitely evidence of breastfed babies growing better than those who are not," said Dr Prakash Vemagal, a neonataligist.

NO QUESTION OF STATEWIDE LOCKDOWN FOR NOW: SUDHAKAR

RAMU PATIL @ Bengaluru

SUNDAY INTERVIEW

WHILE the State Government has imposed weekend curfew in border districts and additional curbs across Karnataka to contain the spread of Covid-19, Health and Medical Education Minister Dr K Sudhakar ruled out imposition of a statewide lockdown. "As of now, there is no question of imposing a lockdown across the state. We don't have such a situation here," Sudhakar, who retained the Health and Medical Education portfolios in Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai's cabinet, told The New Sunday Express. Excerpts from an interview:

What is the situation in the state right now?
There is a slight uptick in the number of cases in Mangaluru, Udupi, Kodagu, Hassan and Chikmagalur districts. There are 162 active micro-containment zones in Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP). Mahadevapura, East and Bommanahalli zones together have more than 65 per cent of the micro-containment zones in Bengaluru. We are closely monitoring the situation.

When the cases in many border districts are increasing, will it help if we place restrictions only in those districts?
Considering the present situation, we have decided to impose restrictions only in the districts bordering Kerala and Maharashtra. We will take an appropriate decision in the coming days and weeks based on the suggestions of the Technical Advisory Committee (TAC).

Will the government consider lockdown across the state if cases in other districts too increase?
As of now, there is no question of imposing lockdown across the state. We are not in such a situation. We have already imposed night curfew across the state and the restrictions like the curbs on large gatherings and other potential risks are already in place. We will monitor the situation on a day-to-day basis and take appropriate decisions based on the opinions of experts and recommendations of the TAC.

The TAC has suggested to the government to conduct a third serosurvey, which should also include children, to mitigate the third wave. When will it be done?
It will be conducted in all the districts soon. Necessary instructions regarding this have already been issued.

What is the status of oxygen supply? Many hospitals still depend on the government for oxygen supply, despite being asked to augment oxygen supply. What is being done on that front?
We have decided to boost oxygen capacity by 1,123 kilolitres in the state. We are setting up new oxygen generation plants and procuring oxygen cylinders and concentrators to avoid shortages and to ensure adequate availability of oxygen across the state. We have also taken steps to add additional 3,249 ICU beds and 8,315 oxygenated beds in district and taluk hospitals.

What steps are being taken to ensure that we get 1,200 MT oxygen allocated to Karnataka?
The supply of medical oxygen to hospitals is determined by contractual arrangements between the hospital concerned and the medical oxygen supplier. We will take steps to manage the logistics in advance and activate nodal officers and teams to ensure adequate and timely supply of oxygen to hospitals based on demand.

On one hand, we are imposing additional restrictions, on the other, we are reopening schools from August 23. Isn't it contradictory?
The decision to reopen schools has been taken after wide consultations with experts and all stakeholders. However, the government will take appropriate decisions based on the prevailing situation in each district. The safety of children is of utmost priority for our government. Rest assured, whatever decision the government takes will be in the interest of the safety and future of our children. The report submitted by the Dr Devi Shetty-led committee has provided detailed suggestions in this regard. The government is adhering to all those guidelines and SOPs suggested by experts.

What is the status of establishing genome sequencing labs in districts? When will it be done?
Six genomic labs have been approved and the tender process is under way. As of now, we are following the Government of India guidelines of testing 5 per cent of total positives for new variants at the National Institute of Mental Health & Neuro Sciences (NIMHANS) and National Centre for Biological Sciences (NCBS) genomic laboratories.

Vaccine shortage is a major concern. What is the government's strategy to overcome this?
There is no shortage of vaccines. Yesterday, we crossed the milestone of administering 50 crore doses across India. In Karnataka, we have administered more than 3.23 crore doses. We have received 12.24 lakh doses of vaccine so far in August. Today Johnson & Johnson's vaccine has got emergency use approval which has expanded our basket. So, there is no shortage of vaccines and, as I said earlier, we are confident of fully vaccinating the entire adult population in the state by the year-end.

Strict night curfew in city, says Palike chief

ENS @ Bengaluru

THE night curfew is being strictly enforced with the help of the city police as per the directives of Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai, said Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) Chief Commissioner Gaurav Gupta on Saturday.

Speaking to the media, he said that apart from this, aggressive contact tracing is being undertaken, irrespective of the variant. A thorough check is also being done at Covid-positive people's houses to check if there is sufficient space for home isolation and required facilities.

On the issue of weekend curfew in Bengaluru, Gupta said the decision will be taken by the government based on the number of cases and positivity rate. At present, there is no weekend curfew in Bengaluru, and it is limited to the border districts. He said the government is working on imposing weekend curfew in places where the positivity rate is between 4-5%. The positivity rate in Bengaluru is around 1%.

On the issue of people opposing the notices being slapped by BBMP on filing taxes, Gupta said there were anomalies over the last 3-4 years where properties falling under A category were paying taxes of C category. He said the complaints from citizens have been received and they are being assessed.

Loyalists land plum posts, some left sulking

MTB Nagaraj, Anand Singh unhappy with portfolios; CM promises to iron out differences soon

ANUSHA RAVI @ Bengaluru

THE biggest winners in Saturday's portfolio allocation process were Araga Jnanendra and V Sunil Kumar. Both debutante ministers, core party loyalists and rooted in the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh, they were given big-ticket portfolios, much to the envy of their Cabinet colleagues.

The portfolio allocation process has attempted to draw a fine balance between ideological insiders and outsiders, party loyalists and B S Yediyurappa backers, seniors and newcomers. As anticipated, dissent over portfolio allocation became public within a matter of hours. While ministers like Anand Singh and M T B Nagaraj (left) expressed their disappointment publicly, others like B Sriramulu huffed behind closed doors.

"Previous CM BSY ji and present CM Basavaraj Bommai ji have not kept their word. I am not happy with allotted portfolio. Will take a call in this regard in 2-3 days (sic)" tweeted Nagaraj after he was given the Municipal Corporation, Public Sector Industries and Small Scale Industries portfolios.

Nagaraj, who was among the 17 legislators who quit the Janata Dal Secular-Congress combine to join the BJP in 2019, was Housing Minister in the coalition government. He was hoping to get the same portfolio this time around, but was left disappointed. Anand Singh too minced no words when he asked if he was incompetent to handle big ministries.

"What is the reason for not giving me a bigger portfolio? Am I corrupt? Have I indulged in scams? Am I incompetent? Why has this portfolio been given to me?" Anand Singh, who was also among the 17, asked. He added that he will meet the chief minister and voice his concerns and suggested that he will resign if he is neglected.

In the selection of ministers as well as allocation of portfolios, the BJP's central leadership seems to have heeded to Sangh's inputs. With allegations of corruption against the previous Cabinet, the party is hoping to start afresh, but more importantly, the Sangh has ensured ministers with close connections with it, like B C Nagesh, Kota Srinivas Poojari, Sunil Kumar and Halappa Achar, get important portfolios.

Major posts for Lingayat heavyweights

S Angara has been made Fisheries and Inland Transport and Ports minister, while JC Madhuswamy has been allowed to retain Minor Irrigation that is close to his heart along with the additional charge of Law and Parliamentary Affairs. CC Patil has been given the heavyweight Public Works Department.

Both Nirani and Patil — Panchamasali Lingayats — have been given heavyweight portfolios in an attempt to pacify the major subsect of Lingayats, since the chief minister comes from a minor subsect. Anand Singh will continue with the Ecology, Environment and Tourism portfolio.

Kota Srinivas Poojari's portfolio has been bumped up with Social Welfare and Backward Classes Welfare. Shivaram Hebbar, ST Somashekhar, BC Patil, Byrathi Basavaraj and Dr K Sudhakar — all newcomers to BJP after they quit the JDS-Congress coalition in 2019 — will retain their former portfolios of Labour, Cooperation, Urban Development, Health and Medical Education, respectively. Shahsikala Jolle, has been given Muzrai, Haj and Wakf. The Women and Child Welfare Department that she previously held has been taken away from her, perhaps due to allegations of corruption in an eggs procurement tender that is pending inquiry.

N Nagaraj (MTB) has been given Municipal Administration, Small-Scale industries and Public Sector Industries, but he has expressed his disappointment publicly. Narayana Gowda will be minister for Sericulture, Youth Empowerment and Sports, while debutante minister BC Nagesh has been given his predecessor's portfolio of Primary and Secondary Education.

'Will take everyone into confidence'

Bengaluru: BJP state president Nalin Kumar Kateel said he will talk to ministers expressing displeasure over portfolio allocation and take them into confidence. CM Bommai's cabinet is a mix of youth and experience and they will all work for the overall development of the state, he said. Kateel said senior leaders, who were not inducted, will be involved in party work in Karnataka and other states. Senior leaders Jagadish Shettar, S Suresh Kumar and Laxman Savadi were not inducted to make way for new faces. In October, the party is planning to hold conventions at the panchayat level if Covid cases come down ahead of the zilla and taluk panchayat polls, he said. "We will work under the guidance of BS Yediyurappa and we will all accompany him during his state tour," he added.

EVERYBODY CANNOT GET THE MINISTRY THEY WANT, SAYS CM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Hubballi

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai, who allocated portfolios to 29 ministers on Saturday, said discontent is quite common after such an exercise and that he will speak to Minister Anand Singh to iron out the differences.

He told reporters that Anand Singh is his good friend and he has been talking to him. "Singh will meet me tomorrow and everything will be alright," he added.

On the specific portfolio demanded by Singh, he said, "Everybody cannot get the ministry they seek."

On the displeasure expressed by Hassan MLA Preetam Gowda over Bommai meeting JDS supremo HD Deve Gowda, the chief minister said, "Preetham seems to have spoken in excitement. But one thing I want to make clear that no politics was discussed at that meeting. I have spoken to party office-bearers and workers of Hassan district. I will take party MLAs and workers into confidence and also protect their interests."

Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai addresses reporters at Hubballi airport on Saturday | D HEMANTH

On former chief minister HD Kumaraswamy calling him the CM of Janata Parivar, Bommai termed it 'mischievous' and said, "Kumaraswamy knows under what circumstances I left JDS. I have been with BJP for the last 16 years and questions me about being a JDS member do not arise at all."

Big winners

- Araga Jnanendra: Debutante minister gets Home portfolio
- CC Patil: Big-ticket portfolio of Public Works
- Murugesh Nirani: Jump from Mines and Geology to Large and Medium Industries
- Sunil Kumar: The all-powerful Energy ministry
- Kota Srinivas Poojari: Jump up to Social Welfare and Backward Classes

Big losers

- B Sriramulu: From Social Welfare to Transport and ST Development
- R Ashoka: From aspiring to be Bengaluru in-charge, forced to keep Revenue
- KS Eshwarappa: From expecting to be deputy chief minister to retaining RDPR
- MTB Nagaraj: From hoping to get Housing portfolio to being given Municipal Administration

CM plays it safe, keeps sought-after Bengaluru development portfolio

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @Bengaluru

Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai, like his predecessor BS Yediyurappa, has kept the Bengaluru Development portfolio to himself, stopping seven ministers from Bengaluru who were eyeing the job on their tracks.

While allocating portfolios, the chief minister has taken care of BJP old-timers, giving higher education, IT-BT and Science and Technology to Dr CN Ashwath Narayan, revenue to R Ashoka and housing and infrastructure to V Somanna.

He allocated cooperative ministry to ST Somashekar, urban development to Byrathi Basavaraj, excise to K Gopalaiah and Horticulture and Munirathna, all of whom joined BJP from other parties and helped it form the government two years ago.

Ashwath Narayan, Ashoka, Somanna and Somashekar were aiming for the plum portfolio. In fact, Somanna had said in public that he was willing to manage the ministry as he had served it earlier. Somashekar too had openly expressed his wish.

BJP sources said, "It was one of the most sought-after portfolios. By giving it to any of the seven ministers, Bommai would have earned the wrath of others. Yediyurappa too faced a similar dilemma. At the same time, it is not a good idea for the chief minister to keep the portfolio as it needs a dedicated person to handle Bengaluru, as one needs to look after BBMP, BWSSB, BDA and other civic agencies and coordinate between these agencies. Bommai also holds another demanding portfolio of finance and he may not be able to do justice to Bengaluru. He also has to travel across the State and Delhi as chief minister."

Bommai govt grants Cabinet-rank facilities to BSY

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

IN a surprise move, the State Government on Saturday issued an order according Cabinet rank facilities to former chief minister B S Yediyurappa. An order issued by the Under Secretary, Department of Personnel and Administrative Reforms (DPAR), protocol wing, states that as long as the current chief minister holds the post, his predecessor Yediyurappa will enjoy all facilities of a Cabinet rank minister.

According to sources in the government, this is for the first time that a former CM in Karnataka is being given Cabinet rank status and all related facilities.

Sources in the Chief Minister's Office (CMO) said that an outgoing CM will continue to enjoy certain facilities like government bungalow, car and staff for six months after demitting office. These facilities can be availed under the DPAR protocols. But for Yediyurappa, the order states that he will be given facilities equivalent to a Cabinet rank. Yediyurappa can avail facilities like an official bunglow, car, 11 staffers, including gunmen and the government will pay them.

> Most of the ministers of the Yediyurappa Cabinet will continue to stay in their bungalows. Former ministers C P Yogeeshwara and Jagadish Shettar and former DyCM Laxman Savadi will have to vacate their official bungalows
> DPAR source

Meanwhile, Yediyurappa is expected to continue staying at 'Cauvery', the official residence allotted to the CM, which is located next to 'Krishna', the CM's home office. Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai is likely to stay at his RT Nagar residence, which was allotted to his father and former CM S R Bommai. The DPAR sources said that when Yediyurappa was CM, JDS leader H D Kumaraswamy had availed facilities given to previous chief ministers.

In Bengaluru, there are 23 government bungalows that are allotted to the CM, ministers, Opposition leaders, judges and government executives. "Most of the ministers of the Yediyurappa Cabinet will continue to stay in their bungalows. Former ministers C P Yogeeshwara and Jagadish Shettar and former Deputy CM Laxman Savadi will have to vacate their official bungalows within one month," said a DPAR source.

DVS slams Cong for disrupting Parliament

ENS @ Bengaluru

FORMER Union Minister and Bengaluru North MP DV Sandanda Gowda on Saturday slammed the Congress for disrupting Parliament proceedings and urged the Opposition to participate in debates.

Speaking to the media at the BJP office here, Gowda accused the Congress of not allowing discussions on important issues related to national security since July 19. "The proceedings were conducted for only 18 hours and they did not even allow Question Hour. The Congress was not even willing for a debate on important issues like Covid and amendments to the farm laws," he said.

On the Mekedatu project, Gowda said all 25 BJP MPs from Karnataka will make all efforts to get the necessary approvals.

KHEL RATNA AFTER-EFFECT

Ravi wants govt to rename Indira Canteens

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

A day after Prime Minister Narendra Modi announced the renaming of the Rajiv Gandhi Khel Ratna, the country's highest sporting award, to Major Dhyan Chand Khel Ratna award, BJP National General Secretary CT Ravi has urged Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai to change the name of Indira Canteens to Annapoorneshwari Canteen.

In a tweet on Saturday, the Chikkamagaluru MLA said, "Request CM Sri @BSBommai to rename Indira Canteens across Karnataka as Annapoorneshwari Canteen at the earliest. Don't see any reason why Kannadigas should be reminded of the dark days of Emergency while they are having food."

Criticising Ravi for his demand, KPCC president DK Shivakumar said that former PM Indira Gandhi was behind the Green Revolution and prioritised food security to leave behind the colonial legacy of famines. "As anyone in Chikkamagaluru can tell you, Mrs Gandhi and Karnataka shared special bond," he said. Shivakumar said that Indira Canteens in Karnataka took forward the pro-poor legacy of Indira Gandhi.

Leader of Opposition Siddaramaiah said it was an age-old tradition to name roads, stadiums and government schemes after national leaders. "In Bengaluru, a flyover is named after Deendayal Upadhay, Vajpayee's name for urban transport and a cricket stadium is named after Modi. Why not change these names too?" Siddaramaiah, under whose tenure the Indira Canteens were set up, charged.

Let it be Nagarahole national park, say Kodagu residents

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

IT'S just not the highest sporting honour. Locals in Kodagu are now demanding that the name of Nagarahole Tiger Reserve, which is officially called Rajiv Gandhi National Park, be restored. In a petition to Prime Minister Narendra Modi, Home Minister Amit Shah, Ministry of Environment, Forests and Climate Change and Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai, they have demanded that it continue to be called as Nagarahole or be renamed after Field Marshal K M Cariappa or General K S Thimayya.

Naveen M, a coffee planter, who started the petition, said, "Nagarhole was renamed after Rajiv Gandhi just to appease a political party and a family. If it has to be named after an eminent person, then why not our local heros? We were never keen that it be named after Rajiv Gandhi, the petition was always there. It has now become now a campaign after the Khel Ratna was renamed." Many others from Kodagu have supported the call. Col C P Muttanna (retd), from Coorg Wildlife Society said, "We have never called it as Rajiv Gandhi National Park. Everyone has been calling it Nagarahole. Suddenly, one day, we saw the board and the government order on it being renamed." However, some conservationists and Forest Department officials feel that instead of focusing on name change, it is important to undertake conservation works to reduce man- animal conflict.

GOVT ISSUES ORDER ON SCHOLARSHIPS FOR FARMERS' KIDS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE State Government on Saturday issued an order to start a scholarship scheme, exclusively for children of farmers from this financial year. At his first cabinet meeting, immediately after taking over as chief minister, Basavaraj Bommai had announced the scheme to cover higher education of farmers' children and had set aside Rs 1,000 crore.

According to the government order, the yearly scholarship amount will be directly credited into the bank accounts of children who have completed their 10th Standard and are pursuing courses in any registered educational institution or university. Boys studying PUC or ITI courses will be eligible for Rs 2,500, while girls get Rs 3,000. While Rs 5,000 will be given to boys in BA, BSc, BCom, MBBS, BE and other professional courses, it will be Rs 5,500 for girls. Boys pursuing Law, Paramedical, Nursing and other vocational courses will be eligible for Rs 7,500, while girls will get Rs 8,000. The scholarship will be Rs 10,000 and Rs 11,000 respectively, for boys and girls doing their post-graduation, the order stated.

Farmers' children who have already availed of other merit scholarships will not be eligible for the State Government scheme.

The scholarships will be given for a particular course. For example, if they get a scholarship for a PG course in a particular subject, they will not be eligible for it again if they join another PG course after completing the course for which they had got the scholarship.

Education Minister BC Nagesh will announce results of the SSLC exams on Monday at 3.30 pm, confirmed the Director of Karnataka Secondary School Examination Board

DJ Halli riots: NIA searches 7 locations

Agency seizes 'incriminating documents' from premises of the absconding accused

BALA CHAUHAN @Bengaluru

THE National Investigation Agency (NIA) on Saturday searched seven locations in the city in connection with last year's DJ Halli and KG Halli police station attack cases (RC-34/2020/NIA/DLI and RC-35/2020/NIA/DLI).

During the searches at the premises of seven absconding charge-sheeted persons, the NIA seized various "incriminating documents and electronic devices," said the agency's spokesperson.

The NIA had filed a 7,000-page chargesheet against 247 people in February, under sections of the Indian Penal Code and the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act (UAPA), in connection with the violence at KG Halli and DJ Halli on August 11, 2020.

The NIA in February had filed a 7,000-page chargesheet against 247 people, under sections of the IPC and UAPA | FILE

The agency had mentioned that the conspirators were disgruntled over the Citizenship Amendment Act (CAA) and National Register of Citizens (NRC). Out of the charge-sheeted, 47 are from the Popular Front of India (PFI) and the Social Democratic Party of India (SDPI).

The NIA had also stated that the attack on the police stations and other public property was "not spontaneous."

The two cases were originally registered at the DJ Halli and KG Halli police stations. The NIA had re-registered the cases after a violent mob comprising of thousands of arsonists had vandalised the two stations, other private and public property, and torched the house of Congress MLA from Pulkeshinagar Akhanda Srinivasa Murthy in Kavalbyrasandra, after the latter's nephew Naveen had allegedly posted inflammatory content on social media.

Scores of people, including 50 policemen, were injured in the violence. Three people were killed in police firing. The Central Crime Branch also investigated and charge-sheeted the case in October last year, naming former Congress mayor Sampath Raj. The latter was subsequently arrested.

During the searches, various incriminating documents and electronic devices were seized from the premises of the absconding accused... further investigation is underway

Lokayukta helps disabled get medical bills, salary

ENS @Bengaluru

LOKAYUKTA Justice P Vishwanatha Shetty intervened to help a physically challenged government officer, who was undergoing dialysis, get his pending medical bill reimbursement and salary.

Revanna, Sericulture Extension Officer, Technical Service Centre, Koratagere, Tumakuru District, received medical reimbursement of Rs 2,62,090 and salary arrears of Rs 3,43,500 after the Lokayukta took up a suo motu case. His medical bills had not been cleared from April 2019 to January 2021 and salary not paid from September 2019 to February 2021.

Revanna approached the Lokayukta on January 22, 2021. Though he did not reveal his plight entirely, the Lokayukta learnt of it through the Lokayukta secretary. "Though Revanna did not put forward his real grievance, having regard to the circumstances to which he is placed, I took a sympathetic view and felt it is desirable to examine his grievance," Justice Shetty noted.

"I could not disclose my sufferings due to an inordinate delay in releasing my medical bills and arrears of salary, when I visited your office. By initiating suo motu proceedings, you have done great help to me," Revanna told the Lokayukta.

FOUR DETAINED

Rowdy killed over tiff with woman

ENS @Bengaluru

A 43-year-old history-sheeter was hacked to death allegedly by his neighbours in Devara Jeevanahalli (DJ Halli), over a trivial issue on Saturday.

The deceased has been identified as Mazhar Khan, a resident of Dr Ambedkar Nagar. He has several criminal cases, including attempt to murder and extortion, booked against him. Police said the murder took place in the morning. Mazhar was reportedly beaten up and stabbed multiple times with lethal weapons, after a fight with a woman in the neighbourhood.

Around 8 am, Mazhar went to a shop run by the woman. A heated argument ensued between the two, which attracted a crowd of onlookers. It is also learnt that he allegedly teased her even as she warned him against it. Embarrassed, she informed her family members about the incident, who confronted Mazhar and attacked him. The police have detained four suspects, including the woman.

POLICE BUST ARMS SMUGGLING RING, ARREST 4 SUSPECTS

ENS @ Bengaluru

OFFICERS of the Central Crime Branch on Friday busted an interstate weapons smuggling nexus. A team arrested four suspects who were involved in the ring, which involved selling country-made firearms to gangsters and rowdies here. Five country-made pistols, two rifles and 19 live ammunition were recovered, a senior police officer said.

According to the officials, the prime accused Ayazulla (30), a resident of Kalasipalya, was sourcing weapons from his contacts in Shamli in Uttar Pradesh, Amritsar in Punjab, and Shirdi in Maharashtra, having them delivered on trains and buses.

Based on a tip-off that Ayazulla was waiting near a hotel in Cottonpet to deliver weapons to some buyers, a police team led by Inspector Hazaresh Killedar swung into action, catching him before he could make the delivery.

During interrogation, Ayazulla revealed information about other accused, identified as Syed Siraj (42) of RT Nagar, Mohammed Ali (32) of Hegde Nagar, and Arun Kumar (26) of Rajanakunte. Their houses were raided, and arms that were purchased by them from Ayazulla were recovered.

State of anomie: Lockdown and the surge in crime

SHOCKING CRIMES

A rowdy-sheeter was murdered on July 19 inside a bank in Bengaluru by a gang of masked men in broad daylight. Joseph alias Babli, a 42-year-old resident of Adugodi, had gone to the Union Bank with his wife and daughter in Koramangala when the incident happened between 1.15 pm and 1.30 pm.

Last month, two RTI activists were hacked to death in Vijayanagar and Bengaluru in a span of four days. Three murders took place in July. In June, 10-year-old Asif Alam was kidnapped by a gang of three men -- Noushad, Siraj and Mohammed Sheikh -- over a ransom of Rs 25 lakh. Sheikh bludgeoned the minor to death after the police arrested Noushad and Siraj. Police investigation revealed that Sheikh had planned the kidnapping so that he could settle down with his girlfriend in Mumbai.

In May, a young Bangladeshi woman was gangraped in Ramamurthynagar allegedly by her own countrymen -- all illegal immigrants from the neighbouring country. The police have arrested 12 accused in the case, of whom 11 are from Bangladesh. The investigation has unravelled what we know best but choose to overlook -- that the rape survivor, along with many other women, was trafficked by an international network of traffickers, which includes Indians.

Septuagenarian Mamatha Basu, who hailed from West Bengal, and her son's friend Debrath Behra (41), a software engineer from Odisha, were murdered for gain at Basu's house in JP Nagar 7th Phase, on the night of April 7.

An auto driver and financier was kidnapped from Indiranagar and murdered when he refused to pay ransom in July.

BALA CHAUHAN @Bengaluru

COVID may have wreaked havoc on the health of people across Karnataka with 29,15,317 infected so far and claiming 36,741 lives, even as the medical fraternity remains anxious about a further surge in cases. But an equally alarming outcome of the pandemic and resulting lockdown is now worrying psychologists, sociologists and crime experts – a looming state of anomie, a social condition characterising a clear breakdown in moral values, guidance and standards for individuals to follow in a civilised society.

The pandemic-induced job losses and rising unemployment are pushing a desperate population to increasingly take to crime and nefarious ways to ensure survival as well as pursuit of addictions. It is targeting newborns, while sowing seeds even in children to take to crime.

Districts across Karnataka have reported trafficking and killing of infants. From Mangaluru – where a young couple decided to sell their newborn because they were not married and poor – to Chikkaballapur, where a young mother strangled her one-day-old daughter and hanged her from the window of a government hospital in Chintamani after she delivered her in the toilet. The couple was arrested under Section 302 of the Indian Penal Code (IPC) for murder. "They are construction workers. The young mother had hidden her pregnancy from her husband and family. She delivered a premature baby and strangled her. She had no remorse for her crime," said Chikkabalapur SP Mithun Kumar.

Last week, another newborn was allegedly thrown out of a hospital window on the outskirts of Bengaluru by her unwed mother.

Illegal adoption, which amounts to child trafficking, has increased in the last year. In Mangaluru, the police arrested Ryan, who was liaising between the biological and 'adoptive' parents. "He was arrested under Section 370 (human trafficking) of IPC," Mangaluru Police Commissioner N Shashi Kumar said. Preliminary investigation revealed that male newborns were being sold for Rs 6 lakh and females for Rs 4 lakh.

Mysuru Superintendent of Police R Chethan, commenting on the Nanjangud illegal child adoption case, says their investigation found the involvement of a private hospital which created documents of the child and parents not in the name of their biological parents but in the name of the couple who paid money to purchase the baby.

School dropout making kids vulnerable to crime

The pandemic has left children dropping out of schools, making them vulnerable to fall for crime, to being recruited for anti-social activities and being trafficked.

A recent United Nations report on trafficking of persons and drugs during the pandemic gives a global perspective of the correlation between the pandemic and an increase in heinous crimes, including trafficking of children for sex and organ trade.

An officer on condition of anonymity said school dropouts have become daily wage earners. "They earn anywhere between Rs 400 and Rs 500 per day. Some of them start abusing substances which lower inhibitions. In many cases, we found first-time offenders committing crime under the influence of drugs and alcohol," he says.

Whether the neo-initiates will evolve into hardened criminals cannot be ascertained. "When crime originates from socio-economic reasons, it cannot be mitigated easily," said the officer.

Recently, the Department of Public Instructions filed an FIR at Nelogi police station in Kalaburagi district against a contractor for keeping an 11-year-old boy as bonded labourer.

The Supreme Court ruling in May this year that the police should not apprehend any accused unless necessary in crimes sentenced with less than seven years' imprisonment to prevent overcrowding of prisons and turning them into Covid hotspots has also had its impact.

DDPI Ashok Bhajantri said the department received a survey report by an agency on school dropouts in which it was said that over 3,000 children in the district are out of school and many of them were working as child labourers. Sources in the Women and Child Welfare Department say many child marriages have taken place in the last 18 months, and the department is conducting a survey.

First-time offenders

There has been an increase in the frequency of crimes, including heinous ones like dacoity, kidnap and murder for gain after the pandemic outbreak. Many police officers admit there has been a spurt in crime since October 2020. What is worrying is that in quite a few cases, perpetrators have been found to be first-time offenders. This, they say, is a direct result of the socio-economic impact of the pandemic with people losing their livelihoods and getting displaced.

The job loss due to the Covid-induced lockdown has had its adverse impact on the youth working in industries. It has resulted in them gambling for money, in turn, resulting in first-time offenders entering the crime world. Some have even stolen money from their parents and wives to meet expenses for alcohol and online gaming.

For instance, 33-year-old Ravi Kumar, a lathe operator with an engineering firm at Peenya First Stage in Bengaluru, lost his job and became addicted to 'Dream11 game' online. As he ran out of money, he robbed a potter woman of her gold 'mangalsutra' and attacked her with a knife before escaping. He was caught by the police who were able to track him down as, being a first-time offender, he had left his mobile phone behind in a hurry to escape. The police said Kumar's game addiction was so severe that with no work for three months, he had mortgaged gold ornaments of his pregnant wife to finance his addiction. The case led to Tumakuru Superintendent of Police Rahul Kumar Shahapurwad ordering raids on all online gaming dens, nabbing the kingpins in Madhugiri subdivision.

Renowned psychiatrist Dr PV Bhandary says an increase in chain-snatching cases indicates that petty crimes have increased. Lots of people have been unemployed, hungry and stressed, provoking them to indulge in crimes.

"There are relapses of psychological illnesses mainly because they do not have money even to buy medicines. When they do not have money, the sight of someone wearing gold chains and walking around probably is a way to show anger where anomie precipitates crimes," he says, adding that even suicide among youth is an outcome of that – many are unable to repay paltry loans taken for their motorbikes. For the young and tender minds, bikes being seized by the banks for defaulting on loan repayment can be most insulting.

A CHANGE IN TRENDS?

A senior police officer in Udupi says crime related to financial disputes is also on the rise in the district. "We are conducting surveillance of habitual offenders to know what they are up to now. Some have returned from Mumbai after suffering losses due to the lockdown. We are keeping a watch as the need to earn big pushes the vulnerable to break the law," he says.

Joint Commissioner of Police (Crime) Sandeep Patil, in Bengaluru, says cybercrimes have increased as criminals take advantage of people working from home or spending more time on the internet. "OTP frauds, offering gifts and swindling people, online cheating by promising marriage, and other cybercrimes increased during the lockdown. Online frauds related to offering Covid-related medicine or substandard sanitizers and masks were also reported during the lockdown," he says.

'Building' from scratch: Athlete's tale of rise & fall

DEEPAK SATHISH @Tiruppur

WHILE on one hand we rejoice the many achievements of the Indian contingent in the ongoing Tokyo Olympics, all is not good for several other local athletes. One among them is C Sivanandam, a marathon and long-distance runner from Tiruppur. After his dreams and hopes were shattered by the pandemic, the 43-year-old athlete is now toiling hard at a construction site to make both ends meet.

The athlete, however, had to bury his vibrant history in sports and academics on the site, for Sivanandam fears he might lose his only source of income if his mason gets to know about it. "I do not have any other choice than to work at the site, from 9 am to 6 pm, to get ₹600 at the end of the day," he said.

A native of Ariyalur, Sivanandam never had the luxury of being coached, but mastered the art himself. "I practised in the fields by setting a clock. I have bagged many medals in several marathons and long-distance running events across the country. I have also been fortunate enough to participate in All India Inter-University tournaments thrice," he said. "I missed the cut to take part in the Summer Olympics of 2000 after I clocked 2 hours and 34 minutes to complete a full marathon in New Delhi," he added.

NEP in K'taka from this academic year

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE Karnataka government on Saturday issued an order implementing the National Education Policy (NEP)-2020 from the current academic year. "With this, Karnataka becomes the first State in the country to issue the order on the implementation of NEP-2020," Higher Education Minister Dr C N Ashwath Narayan said.

The policy seeks to entirely overhaul the education system through various reforms like having a single regulator to oversee higher education; no more MPhil courses before PhD; fixed fees for public and private institutions; option to choose between three and four-year undergraduate courses; multiple entry and exit points in degree courses.

It also aims to increase the Gross Enrolment Ratio in higher education, including vocational education, from 26.3 per cent in 2018 to 50 per cent by 2035 and hopes to add 3.5 crore new seats in higher education institutions.

An official order tweeted by Ashwath Narayana said the policy will be implemented as per the guidelines and added that "our commitment to this is unwavering." Kumar Nayak, Additional Chief Secretary to Higher Education Department, P Pradeep, Commissioner, Department of Collegiate Education, Prof Thimmegowda, Vice-Chairman, Karnataka Higher Education Council and other senior officials were present at the meeting. The implementation will be done as per the guidelines of the NEP, the minister said.

Appreciating the policy, Meera L B Aranha, Professor & Chairperson, Banking and Financial Services, T A Pai Management Institute, Manipal, had earlier told TNIE, "Statistics indicate that even though the percentage of school dropouts is on the decline, it is still around 17.5% at the secondary level. It is also high at the higher education level. Students are forced to take a break from studies due to family issues including financial and medical. Such students now will be able to get a certificate of completion for the number of years they have studied and also have the option to return to their learning and start from where they had left off. "

Some of the NEP Guidelines

- At the start of the 3rd year of a course, students can opt for one subject as a major and another subject as a minor or they can opt for both as major subjects.
- They need to choose Kannada and one more language as subjects. Also, Open Electives and Discipline Electives as per curriculum structure have to be chosen. For those who have not studied Kannada in PUC or 10+2 level, a separate curriculum in Kannada will be prepared.
- Opting (Discipline Core) for subjects is not necessary for studying subject-based graduate courses.
- If the student discontinues graduation, for any reason: After first year completion, he/she shall be given a Certificate; after second year: he/she shall be given a Diploma Certificate; after 3rd year, he/she shall be awarded a Bachelor's Degree.
- If the 4th year of the course is available, the study along with the chosen optional subjects, can be continued to get Honours Degree. If research project is part of the course, such students will be eligible to directly go for Ph.D. studies.
- If there is no Honours Degree in the college in which the student had studied the earlier years, the student can continue studies by joining any other college where Honours Degree is taught.
- Students can get a maximum of 40% of the expected credits through official online courses.
- * Student can get a degree of his/her choice by getting a minimum of 50% credits from the respective university.
- Students can discontinue only after completion of even semesters and can rejoin only for odd semesters.
- Post-Graduation will be of one year or two years. Those who have obtained Honours Degree will be eligible to study one-year PG and those who have got three-year degree will be eligible to join for two-year PG course.
- If the student studying in the 2nd year of PG discontinues after getting prescribed credits set for the first year, he/she can be awarded the Post-Graduate Diploma.

Addressing a press conference at Yadgir on Saturday, Nagesh said that due to Kumar's efforts, students had access to online learnin. "Students will keep on learning either online or offline, through the third wave," he said.

THE newly-appointed Primary and Higher Secondary Education Minister BC Nagesh will announce results of the SSLC exams on Monday at 3:30 in the afternoon, confirmed Director of Karnataka Secondary School Examination Board (KSEEB) Sumangala V.

The result is expected to be announced on the official KSEEB website sslc.karnataka.gov.in.

To clear the examination, students need to get at least 35% in aggregate or 210 out of 600 marks. To obtain a pass certificate, they also need to secure at least 70 marks in the language exam.

Unlike other states, Karnataka did not cancel SSLC and held them in the offline mode, in a new format introduced by former Primary and Secondary Education Minister Suresh Kumar. The exams were held on two days for core subjects, including maths, science, and social science and language papers.

Man who couldn't take jab challenges Kerala govt

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Kochi

A person suffering from drug allergy, who could not get himself vaccinated against Covid on account of this, has approached the Kerala High Court challenging the government order mandating vaccination certificate or RT PCR negative result for those visiting shops and other establishments in the state.

The petition was filed by Pauly Vadakkan, Annamanada, Thrissur. The petitioner approached a hospital to receive a test dose of the Covid vaccine so that he can check for any allergic reaction to the vaccine and receive the vaccine if it were found to be safe. However, the hospital authorities rejected his request, stating that they have not received any guidelines or direction from either the state or the central government regarding administering vaccines to those suffering from drug allergy.

The government has mandated that those visiting shops and commercial establishments should either be vaccinated or have received at least one dose of the vaccine or have an RT PCR negative certificate obtained not earlier than 72 hours prior to the visit. Also, those who had recovered from Covid infection at least 30 days prior to the visit will be allowed.

The petitioner stated that the order issued under the Disaster Management Act discriminates between a vaccinated and unvaccinated person and thereby violates the fundamental right of the petitioner guaranteed under Article 14 of the Constitution. The restrictions imposed on unvaccinated persons are a clear violation of the fundamental right to life and livelihood.

ARE YOU BEING REPRESENTED BY YOUR MP?

THE THIRD EYE

SHANKKAR AIYAR
Author of The Gated Republic, Aadhaar: A Biometric History of India's 12 Digit Revolution, and Accidental India
shankkar.aiyar@gmail.com

IRONY is dying a slow death in the hallowed precincts of the 1927 edifice held up by 144 columns. Every five years, the Constitution affords Indians an opportunity to elect an MP to represent their cause in Parliament. The law under which the MPs are elected was christened by the founding fathers as The Representation of the People Act for good reason. The moot question is: are you being represented by your MP?

On the eve of the monsoon session, this column opened with a cynical observation: "This week the elected representatives will troop into Parliament to represent the electors. Ostensibly!" Clearly, the use of the adverb 'ostensibly' has stood the test of time. For three weeks, the nation has been witness to a spectacle of narrow interests, hijacking of ₹1.5 crore per hour taxpayer paid time for the amplification of political polemics and subjugation of public interests.

There is no disputing the importance of the issues which the opposition was flagging — whether it was the allegations of snooping via Pegasus, the stranglehold of fuel prices and inflation on family budgets, unemployment, or the future of farm laws. It is also true that since the 1990s when P V Narasimha Rao perfected the doctrine of thwarting the opposition with the rule book, parties in power have converted the rules of conducting the House into instruments of denial.

The four-week Monsoon Session was an opportunity for MPs to critique, question, confer with the government on issues agitating those struggling to preserve life and livelihoods. The questions include the issue of compensation for Covid deaths, the many hiccups holding up vaccination, opening up of schools for children grounded at home for over a year, state of small businesses, joblessness and the state of preparedness for the third wave. Instead, the issues, and the urgency for answers, were buried in the din of politics.

Of course, the BJP, as it would, did try to occupy the moral high ground. But the moral high ground in Indian politics is verily a seismic zone. As the authors of the 'it is the government's responsibility to run the House not the opposition' argument, the BJP's posture is politically perilous. If Michael Douglas as Gordon Gekko immortalised the line 'greed is good', the BJP immortalised the argument 'obstruction is good politics'. To use a quaint colloquial expression, what separates the national parties is 'a distinction without difference'. Parties when in Opposition do exactly that which they hold as condemnable when in power.

In 1997, to commemorate the golden jubilee of Independence, political parties passed a resolution grandly titled 'Agenda for India'. They promised to preserve the prestige of Parliament, conform entirely to the Rules of Procedure and Conduct of Business, assure inviolability of Question Hour, not shout slogans and refrain from entering sacred areas of the house. The resolution was forgotten within weeks in the wake of the Jain Commission Report and violated repeatedly during NDA-I by Congress and BJP and others during UPA-I and II.

Notwithstanding the heckling and placarding, the government managed to push through its legislative agenda — over 20 bills, some in minutes, many with little or no discussion. Regardless of the regime in power, the fact is that legislation is drafted by the unelected and it is incumbent on elected members to analyse and audit provisions. Whether the parties agree or not, the harsh perception among the people is that by focussing on obstruction, the opposition virtually abdicated its responsibility to challenge or improve legislation moved by the government.

Consider some of the laws passed and the inadequacy of oversight. The amendment to the Deposit Insurance and Credit Guarantee Corporation Act enables the hike in deposit insurance from ₹1 lakh to ₹ 5 lakh. Every year for the past four years, roughly ₹ 1 lakh crore has been written off by banks. Gross NPAs stand at around ₹10 lakh crore. Is the DGIC adequately funded to meet claims from potential risks?

The amendment to the IBC code brings into play a "pre-packaged insolvency resolution process" for MSMEs. Do we know how many MSMEs have gone bust and how many are classified as distressed? As for the IBC, how much of the monies owed by defaulters are being recovered by banks? Why is it that over 21,000 cases with over ₹9 lakh crore in NPAs are pending at NCLT?

The General Insurance Business (Nationalisation) Amendment Bill, 2021 is aimed at enabling disinvestment of public sector insurance companies. Which ones are on the block? Why are shares of government insurers, some listed after 2017, valued so poorly? And, what regulatory measures will be taken to prevent price gouging by private insurers as has happened in health insurance? The opposition, in its obsession for obstruction, has given the government a free pass over issues of governance affecting the daily lives of the people.

The road to electoral perdition is paved with misplaced notions — primarily mistaking party's private concern as public cause. The reflective among the opposition ranks must ask of themselves and their parties: what has the opposition achieved after three weeks. Attention is not the same as affiliation. Redemption requires parties to innovate their way out of the rut, go back to the basics and represent causes which resonate with the people.

THOSE WHO GIVETH, THOSE WHO TAKETH

POINT OF VIEW

T J S GEORGE

FIRST impressions are, of course, misleading. When Savji Dholakia bought a bungalow in Mumbai's classy Worli Sea Face for ₹18 crore, the image of the "filthy rich" must have crossed many minds. But that image no doubt softened when further information about this rich man became available. Apparently, he is an exceptional rich man. He shares his wealth with his employees. Gifts are routinely given by him to his staff; not naam-ke-wastay gifts, but gifts like houses and jewellery. In 2018, he gave brand new cars to 600 of his personnel.

Rich people with a generous mind are not a rarity in India. Published reports show that quite a few of them are inclined to give parts of their wealth to others. Rajashree Birla is well-known as an overseer of meaningful Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) initiatives, focussing on education, healthcare and infrastructure. Nita Ambani heads Reliance's CSR arm, the Reliance Foundation. Its records say that in just nine years, some 12 million people have benefited from its activities.

The Shiv Nadar Foundation donates hundreds of crores to promote education and healthcare and to give assistance to art and artists. The support provided by Tata Trusts to a wide range of activities is one of India's old and proud stories. Azim Premji has become a legend in this field, especially in helping the rural poor. Premji is the only Indian in the list of "20 Most Generous People in The World" put out by an organisation called Business Insider. He is listed fourth with "Lifetime Donations: $8 billion" and "Generosity Index: 50 per cent." (Number one in the list, Bill Gates, is credited with Lifetime Donations: $27 billion and Generosity Index: 32 per cent)

There is a record named the EdelGive Hurun India Philanthropy List that keeps track of who gives how much. Its 2020 listing put Premji family first, followed by Shiv Nadar family, Mukesh Ambani family, Kumar Mangalam Birla family, Anil Agarwal family and Ajay Piramal family. The general public does not even need listings like these to recognise who is doing what. Who doesn't know the value of contributions made by Sudha Murthy (involved in orphanages, public hygiene, women's empowerment), Rohini Nilekani (who outlined a philosophy when she said "wealth comes with a huge responsibility"), Kiran Mazumdar–Shaw (visionary behind Biocon and its pioneering work in the bio-pharmaceutical field)?

There is, of course, no question of comparing what is done in India with what is done in America. These are very different economies. American billionaires do their charity chores in big ways. Last year, Jeff Bezos donated $10 billion to launch what he called the Bezos Earth Fund. He also gave $100 million to an organisation called Feeding America, which supplies to more than 200 food banks. No wonder the US tops the list of the World's Most Generous Countries as compiled by the UK-based Charities Aid Foundation (This foundation prepares a World Giving Index every year based on annual surveys by Gallup.)

Destiny is not unalterable. Of all life forms, human beings alone have the ability to think and take decisions independently. Which means that humans are not entirely helpless in front of destiny; they can have a fair go at tackling it.

The Gates Foundation is still the world's largest private charitable organisation. It has distributed 50 billion dollars in grants since 1994. The biggest philanthropist in Forbes list is Warren Buffet who gave 14.7 billion dollars for charity. That was only 16 per cent of his net worth.

History's ironic footnote is that America was once the battleground of "robber barons", businessmen who succeeded with unethical and unscrupulous practices. At one time, Andrew Carnegie headed that list, but he underwent a transformation and became a supporter of workers' rights. One of the truisms for which he is remembered is: "The man who dies rich dies disgraced." His philosophy was that no man should become rich without enriching others. How many of our tycoons would agree?

Those who are born rich tend to think that it is their right. Those who are born poor take it as their kismet, their destiny. Change comes when both start thinking differently — when the rich think that wealth goes with responsibilities, and the poor realise that there are ways to tackle kismet. Destiny is not unalterable. Of all life forms, human beings alone have the ability to think and take decisions independently. Which means that humans are not entirely helpless in front of destiny; they can have a fair go at tackling it. Spiritual leaders use spiritual phrases such as inner power and divine consciousness. Pay heed if you are spiritually inclined. If not, there is always Derek O'Brien who accused the Centre of legislating as if they were making papri chaat. That was unfair to papri chaat.

THE four Ds of Democracy are debate, discuss, deliberate and decide. Edit them out, and all you get is an alphabet soup of demagogy sans credibility. The survival of a vibrant democracy depends on the integrity of its three important pillars — the Executive, the Legislature and the Judiciary. If any of them show signs of degeneration, it suggests a deep rot within the edifice built with the mandate of the people.

Ironically, when India is about to celebrate its 75 years of Independence as an elected democracy, all the three pillars are under severe strain. The threat is not from outside. The Legislature is expected to legislate. It isn't, going by the week's parliamentary shenanigans. The Executive is legally bound to execute decisions and laws passed by the Legislature. Instead, it is revelling in the absence of legislative scrutiny. The Judiciary is expected to assert its audit. It is doing less and less of it. Over the past decades, the basic principle of checks and balances enshrined in the Constitution has become just a sentence in one of the many chapters, nibbled on by the silverfish of ennui and disrespect.

Even after three weeks, both houses of Parliament resemble fish markets, raucous with rambunctious rhetoric, invading the Well of the House, tearing up papers and waving posters even as the granite fist of the government pushes through bills without discussions. All the principal actors are keen to be heard more outside Parliament than inside. They rush to engage with each other on their usual hunting grounds — TV studios, social media and press conferences. But the forum where they have been sent to speak in the voice of the people, by the people, has turned into bedlam. Rarely do over 70 per cent of MPs get a single chance to speak on a subject of their choice during their full five-year term. The conduct of all current MPs is nothing short of the betrayal of their mandate. Yet, the BJP and the Opposition led by the Congress take the high moral ground, claiming that although they want Parliament to function smoothly, the other is preventing them from doing so. It is, perhaps, for the first time in seven years that the entire Opposition barring a couple of regional parties have rallied against the government. They are insisting on a structured discussion on Pegasus spyware, farmers' agitation, inflation and other issues.

Such repeated disruptions of Parliament are posing a serious threat to the existence of the Institution, which is expected to work for the people. During a session, the government is expected to get its business approved after proper scrutiny and discussion in the House. It has the power to bring in new legislation. But, it is also duty bound to respect the sentiments of the Opposition and let it have its say. However, in the past four decades, Parliament has become a battlefield of egos where confrontation has replaced consensus and reconciliation. As the ruling party at the Centre became more assertive and aggressive under a strong leader, the Opposition has retaliated with equal vehemence to demolish the leader than offering an alternate narrative. In the absence of an informal communication network which was the norm for years, the bridge between the opposing sides is one too far. In fact, the rise of an individual over an institution has contributed to the marginalisation of the legislature.

It was during Indira Gandhi's second coming in the 1970s when the distance between the twin poles of democracy grew apart to such an extent that the imposition of the Emergency and the suppression of the parliamentary system became corollary transgressions. The Executive took over all powers while the Judiciary became seriously compromised. The absence of internal democracy in both the ruling party and the Opposition led to an ugly war for individual supremacy and dominance. History has an atavistic way of playing cruel jokes on idealism, by perverting its original passion into a burlesque of ambitions.

Whenever the Opposition raises issues like corruption, atrocities against the weaker sections, communalism, inflation and the like, the ruling party smells a rat and circles their wagons around the Supreme Leader. This Pavlovian response to protect the Big Chief is preventing Parliament from holding peaceful sessions. Over the years, both Houses have been disrupted frequently by the Opposition with the sole objective of demolishing the credibility of the Prime Minister, whether it is Indira or Manmohan Singh, or of a powerful personality like Sonia Gandhi. The political establishment has convinced itself that it is not the business concluded in the House, but such parliamentary katzenjammer that gets them attention and votes. For such ideologically neutral politicians, Parliament is not a place for competing for better ideas but a belvedere for Clash of Egos.

The declining number of sittings and business hours indicate that the Legislature is being reduced to just another rubber stamp for giving approval for minimal and essential legislation. The actual working hours and sitting days of successive Lok Sabhas have been declining rapidly. It appears that Narendra Modi's rise as a national leader has not gone down well with the Opposition. During his first term in the 16th Lok Sabha from June 2014 to February 2019, the House worked for only 1,615 hours which is 40 per cent less than the average 2,689 hours in all previous terms. The 16th Lok Sabha sat for 331 days as against the previous average of 468 days. During Modi's first term, it lost 16 per cent of scheduled time to disruptions. The Congress is correct in accusing the BJP of disrupting Parliament more often when the saffron dominated the Opposition. During Manmohan Singh's second term, the Lok Sabha lost 37 per cent of its time to disruptions by the BJP and others.

It seems the growing insignificance of Parliament reflects the poor quality of its elected representatives. Since most MPs are elected not on merit but by riding the coattails of their charismatic leader, they don't have the courage to speak against the leadership and assert their right to participate in the legislative process. The system of backdoor communication with other parties to resolve contentious matters has become moribund since even the ministers barely enjoy the respect of their opponents like in the past. As competitive sycophancy enjoys a premium over credible speech in the House, it pays richer dividends to disrupt and abstain. The erosion of the institution of Parliament encourages the Executive to assume excessive powers to crush other institutions.

With the Media, the self declared fourth pillar of democracy being conspicuous by its discreet invisibility or obvious sycophancy, the Judiciary has taken a tactical retreat on imposing its legitimate checks. If it is the responsibility of the ruling party to ensure proper functioning of Parliament, it is the duty of the Opposition to leave space for a feasible solution. In the absence of any tall and credible leader in the opposition benches, the logjam can always be broken by a magnanimous and powerful leader of the House — the Prime Minister. At the moment, each and every MP is failing the nation and democracy. As Michael Moore wrote: "Democracy is not a spectator sport, it's a participatory event. If we don't participate in it, it ceases to be a democracy." In this Orwellian opera of participatory pandemonium, it would be unwise to perceive over 1 billion silent spectators as acquiescent acolytes. In the sport of democracy, the people have the last word.

Stop religious fanaticism

The All India Muslim Personal Law Board (AIMPLB) asserts that marriage between a Muslim and non-Muslim cannot be accepted under the Personal Law and is considered invalid (TNIE, Aug 7). Such marriages should be discouraged at all costs, it says. It is such fanatic attitude that leads to issues like love jihad. In a marriage between an adult male and female, how can any outsider call it invalid? As the Kerala High Court observed the other day, a common law for marriages and divorce is badly needed in the country.

Shameful conduct of govt

It's disconcerting to learn that the ex-gratia, promised to the families of doctors who died of Covid, has still not been made by the state. The promise of a family member getting government job also remains unfulfilled. What's more painful is that the solatium of `50 lakh, announced by the previous government, was reduced to `25 lakh by the new dispensation. The leaders should hang their heads in shame for playing a dirty game.

Justice delivery has to be fast

Litigation is largely associated with far reaching negative connotations for the common man. While condemning the killing of a Dhanbad judge, I would like to point out that many lives are lost waiting for justice. Justice delayed is justice denied, but the government/judiciary take umbrage behind administrative issues. We have heard of activists crying hoarse about the "sarkari killings" where a person dies unable to get justice in time. The judiciary should respond to all such cases and do course correction. Only the rich and highly connected have their way out. All this is the result of lack of will power of successive governments. At least, we now have a CJI trying to set the record straight.

Govardhana Myneedu, Vijayawada

Absurd Covid rules

The Kerala health minister, appearing like Chettikulangara Kettu Kazcha, works on remote control. If the Opposition points out a mistake in the Assembly, she continues to oppose everything. As per the newly designed Covid protocol those who have recovered from Covid are allowed to go to shops but have to show the certificate of recovery. Who gives a certificate to those who have been cured of their disease by drinking hot water, eating Dolo and starving without going to the hospital? No wonder, the number one state is a Kangaroo court.

Course correction, finally

This refers to the report that the NDA Government has rechristened the Rajiv Khel Ratna Award in the honour of Dhyan Chand. In fact, the hockey wizard should have been the first Bharat Ratna in the field of sports. Frankly, even the sports stadiums and educational institutions should also change the names of political leaders and rechristen them in the name of eminent sportspersons and scientists. Mistakes can be corrected.

Revive heritage railway station

The old railway station in Tezpur is lying in utter neglect. There were numerous demands for its revival but to no avail. In a recent report, it is mentioned that Dekargaon station is just 5 km from Tezpur town. This is a result of haphazardly entering data without cross checking. Dekargaon station is a good 10 km from Tezpur. The people have to travel 10 km despite having a station in the middle of the town. Does it sound sensible?

Constitution amendment, power bills in Parl next week

Legislation to restore states' power to make own OBC list will need House to be in order

MANISH ANAND @ New Delhi

LINING up key legislative proposals before the last week of the ongoing monsoon session of Parliament, the Modi government is gearing up to aim to put the Opposition in a spot even while a complete washout appears looming.

The government is bracing up for pushing the Constitution 127th Amendment bill to give the power to states to prepare their own list of other backward castes (OBCs), while there are indications that the contentious Electricity Amendment Bill, which is being strongly opposed by Kerala and West Bengal, may also come before the two Houses.

While as many as 15 bills have been passed either by the Lok Sabha or the Rajya Sabha in the ongoing session amid ruckus, the next week is set to be different as a Constitution Amendment bill cannot be taken up if the House is not in order. The bill, seeking to restore the power of the states to draw their OBC lists, is politically sensitive, and the government is hoping that the Opposition parties will allow the procedures required for its passage by allowing discussion with both the Houses in order.

"The government has regularly been reaching out to the Opposition parties, and had even agreed for discussions on three issues raised by them, namely situations arising out of Covid-19, farmers' bills and consequent agitations, and prices of petroleum products," Union Minister of state for the Parliamentary Affairs Arjun Ram Meghwal told this newspaper.

"Even on Pegasus issue, the discussion could have begun in the Rajya Sabha after the suo moto statement by minister Aswini Vaishnav. But the Trinamool Congress MP heckled him and tore paper," he added.

However, the Opposition, particularly the TMC and the Left, are not likely to moderate their aggression amid indications emerging that the Electricity Amendment Bill could be taken up by the two Houses in the last week.

The bill seeks to further open up power distribution sector with the aim to spur competition, but is being opposed on the grounds that it will provide more profitable options to the private players, who may not invest in infrastructure upgradation.

> Even on Pegasus issue, the discussion could have begun in Rajya Sabha after statement by minister Aswini Vaishnav. But TMC MPs heckled him and tore paper
> Arjun Ram Meghwal, Union minister

The ruling BJP and the TMC continue to be at the loggerheads in the monsoon session of Parliament. While the Trinamool is reportedly putting up conditions for withdrawal of suspension of its MPs from the Rajya Sabha, government sources said that the presiding officer can consider calling them back only if they apologise for their actions.

"Even senior BJP leaders in the past, after being suspended for agitation in the House when the party was in the Opposition, had apologised. Why cannot the TMC MPs apologise," said a Union minister, while speaking to this newspaper.

The government, however, appears determined to push maximum of the bills in the last week of the monsoon session, concluding on August 13.

Facing heat of united Oppn, PM makes pro-poor pitch

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

PM Narendra Modi addresses beneficiaries of Pradhan Mantri Garib Kalyan Anna Yojana in MP via video link on Saturday | PTI

IN the face of the Opposition closing ranks against the government, Prime Minister Narendra Modi appears to have gone to building his pro-poor credentials by banking on free ration distribution scheme.

He has held interactions with beneficiaries from Gujarat, Uttar Pradesh and Madhya Pradesh. More such video talks with dole recipients from other states is on the cards.

The ruling BJP had in past drawn comfort from a division in the Opposition ranks. But this time, the govermnent is staring at the prospect of a complete washout of monsoon session in the face of Opposition unity. BJP leaders noted that the party's loss in West Bengal assembly election had boosted the rivals' morale, making them eye the 2024 Lok Sabha elections much earlier.

"The government has its mandate from the 2019 Lok Sabha verdict, and it's accordingly carrying out the business of the governance to fulfill the aspirations of the people. But the Opposition is sensing 2024 poll opportunities," remarked a Union minister, while speaking to this newspaper.

The Prime Minister Garib Kalyan Yojna, unveiled in the midst of the first wave of the Covid-19 pandemic, is now seen to be the launch pad by the BJP to consolidate support base among the poor, who had arguably backed the saffron outfit in the Hindi heartland in 2019, with the party cashing in on the implementation of centrally sponsored schemes.

The PM's interactions with the beneficiaries of the free ration (till Diwali, November) in addition to the National Food Security Act is seemingly designed in a manner that a strong pitch is made on the pro-poor credentials of the government by emphasising the benefits of additional schemes such as PM-Kisan Nidhi. The electoral pitch of the PM's virtual interactions has also been visible, with a mention of state government's achievements being the common theme.

With the prime minister directly speaking to the beneficiaries, the BJP hopes to slowly build on its campaigns for the Assembly elections next year in Uttar Pradesh, Gujarat, Goa, Uttarakhand, Himachal Pradesh and Manipur.

Rahul's Twitter account locked for violating POCSO norms

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

The Congress on Saturday announced that Twitter had temporarily locked the account of party's former president Rahul Gandhi. The Congress said 'due process' is being followed for the restoration of the account.

The action comes in the backdrop of Gandhi sharing the photograph of the parents of a minor rape victim in the National Capital on Friday. The micro-blogging site took down the tweet after the National Commission for Protection of Child Rights shot off a letter to it, saying it violated the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences (POCSO) Act and the Juvenile Justice Act. The Congress said Gandhi would remain active on other social media channels and continue to raise the voice of the people.

A group of activists filed a plea in the Delhi HC, seeking directions to the NCPCR to register an FIR against Gandhi. "The commission received a complaint bringing to its notice that a photo of the minor girl victim's family has been posted with the caption stating that they are the father and the mother of the victim child on Twitter handle @RahulGandhi," said the NCPCR letter.

Single dose vaccine gets drug regulator nod

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

INDIA'S apex drug regulator on Saturday approved the single dose Covid-19 vaccine by Janssen, a subsidiary of the US pharma giant Johnson and Johnson, making it the fifth vaccine against coronavirus to receive emergency use authorisation for the national vaccination drive.

"India expands its vaccine basket! J&J's single-dose Covid-19 vaccine is given approval for emergency use in India. Now India has 5 EUA vaccines," tweeted union health minister Mansukh Mandwiya.

The company had applied for the EUA, along with the Serum Institute of India which sought the same approval for its version of Novavax Covid vaccine, on Thursday.

As per the US Center for Disease Control and Prevention, J&J's vaccine was shown to be 66.3% effective in efficacy trials at preventing laboratory-confirmed Covid-19 infection and people had the most protection two weeks after getting vaccinated.

A company statement issued in July said the vaccine is nearly 85% effective against severe or critical disease and demonstrates protection against hospitalization and death.

"The advantage of this viral vector-based vaccine is that it is a single shot vaccine and can be stored in regular refrigerators for up to three months," a senior government official said, adding that given its cost of about Rs 2,000 per dose, it may be mainly available in private hospitals in the coming days.

The firm had also said the vaccine elicited neutralising antibody activity against the delta variant at an even higher level than what was recently observed for the beta variant in South Africa where high efficacy against this strain had been demonstrated.

J&J has tied up with Hyderabad-based Biological E for the global supply chain network, hoping to supply its Covid-19 vaccine Janssen through extensive collaborations and partnerships with governments, health authorities and organisations such as Gavi and the Covax facility.

The vaccine had received emergency use authorization in the US in February followed by conditional marketing authorisation in March.

Authorities in private hospitals said the vaccine may be particularly apt for India given that it is a single dose vaccine and can be stored easily.

"These two features make it useful for a large chunk of population in tier II and III cities and remote parts in the country," Girdhar J Gyani, director general of the Association of Healthcare Providers of India had earlier said.

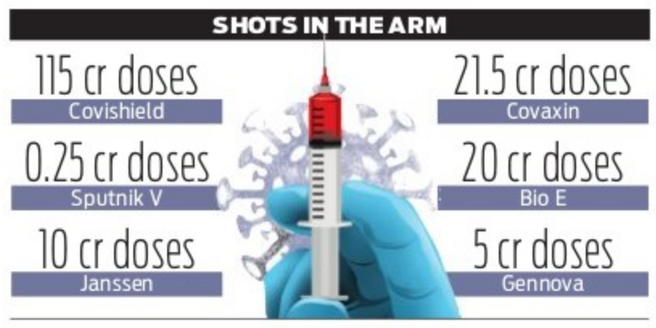
Centre projects 78 crore Covishield, Covaxin doses to be available by Oct

SUMI SUKANYA DUTTA @ New Delhi



THE Centre has projected the production of nearly 78 crore doses of Covishield and Covaxin — the two vaccines which have been the lynchpin of the national Covid vaccination drive — for next three months, raising hopes of pace in the sluggish programme.

An internal note prepared by the health ministry, reviewed by this newspaper, says that in August, nearly 25.5 crore doses of the two vaccines will be manufactured, while it will go to a little above 26 crore doses in September and 28 crore doses in October.

The total vaccination figures have crossed the 50-crore mark but the population fully covered with two doses remains just about 11 crore. This is less than 9% of the total adult population of India, which is about 95 crore, and 190 crore doses are required to fully vaccinate them.

The note also says that from August-December, over 136 crore doses of Covishield and Covaxin will be manufactured. Additionally, sources in the health ministry said that Covid-19 vaccines by Biological E, Covovax, Janssen and Gennova will also be available starting October.

"We are hoping to get about 35-40 crore doses of these vaccines in next three months which will take the total tally of vaccines to nearly 200 crore doses by the year end," a senior ministry official said.

Experts pointed out that the government should also reveal the actua doses to be available in coming months.

"What we are being told is the projected production capacities of the vaccine makers but so far we have seen that the actual supply has been far lesser and an explanation of a few months' lag in the production cycle is offered for this," said a vaccinologist attached with a government institute in Faridabad.

"Therefore I will not be excited by these figures and would want to see how many doses are actually supplied in the coming days," he added.

Rajasthan Congress MLAs fret over delay in Cabinet rejig by CM Gehlot

RAJESH ASNANI @ Jaipur

WITH no Cabinet expansion or reshuffle in sight, the Congress MLAs in Rajasthan are an anxious lot as Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot seems to be making no move in the backdrop of demands made by the Sachin Pilot camp regarding political appointments.

The buzz is that despite pressure from the party high command, Gehlot is still resisting a Cabinet reshuffle and only wants an expansion.

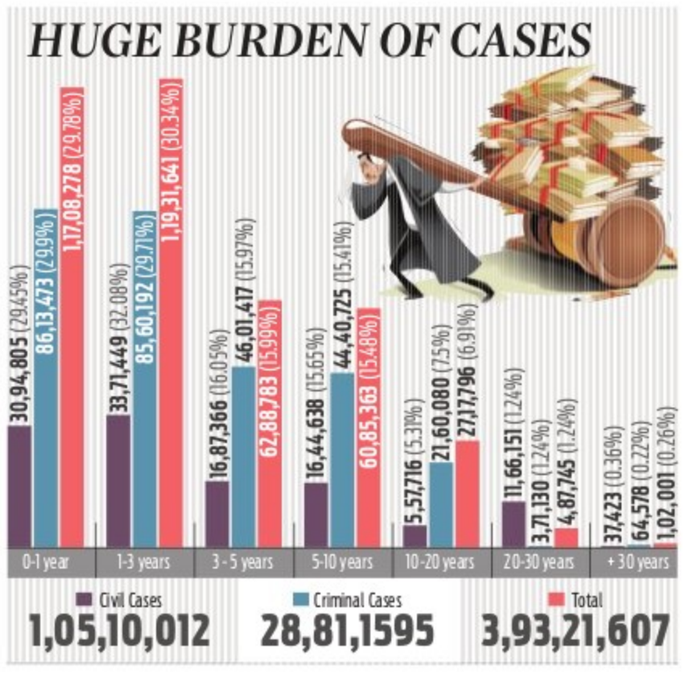
It was this central point that was the main agenda during Karnataka Pradesh Congress Committee chief DK Shivakumar discussions with him in Jaipur. While the high command reportedly set August 15 as the final date to reshuffle the Cabinet, Congress insiders say Gehlot now wants to wait for changes till the panchayat elections are completed.

The deadlock is over the demand of Pilot loyalists that some existing ministers must be dropped based on their performance and the feedback from MLAs, party insiders said.

Many MLAs from both camps are upset and anxious due to delay in the Cabinet rejig. "How long should we keep waiting to get berths in the ministry or some other assignment? More than half the tenure of our government is over. It is very difficult for us to explain this uncertainity to our voters and supporters," a senior MLA said.

Meanwhile, Pilot supporters are now pointing out that the delay in Cabinet expansion and political appointments are not only causing disappointment among the party workers but will also send out a message to voters that the Congress High Command is unable to solve the rift in the Rajasthan unit.

Case backlog in Indian courts touching all-time high of 4 cr



KANU SARDA @ New Delhi

A massive pendency seem to be clogging the Indian judiciaal system again with the backlog of cases touching an all-time high of almost 4 crore now. The key reason attributed is huge vacancies across the three tiers of judiciary and the infrastructure available for them.

"Collectively we are making a mockery of the judicial system," the Supreme Court of India had said earlier this week, referring to the huge number of trivial, miscellaneous cases that have prevented the top court from deciding the ones that really matter to those waiting for final verdicts of their long pending matters.

"A common man is not interested in our big legal principles. A litigant only wants to know what is there for him in a case that he has filed, whether he has a case or not. He does not want to wait indefinitely to know whether he was right or not. What does he do with a judgement that takes 10 years or 20 years," the Supreme Court judges remarked.

324 yrs of hearing to clear pendency

A NITI aayog strategy paper of 2018 had noted that at the current rate of disposal of cases by the courts in the country, it will take more than 324 years to clear the backlog

An analysis of data available on National Judicial Data grid suggests that civil cases clog the judicial system more than criminal cases. Also, the maximum chunk of pendency is attributed to cases which are one year to three years old, followed by cases which are less than one year after its filing.

Interestingly, the oldest cases pending for over 30 years — both civil and criminal — are just 0.36% of the total.

According to a NITI aayog strategy paper of 2018, it had noted that at the current rate of disposal of cases by the courts in the country, it will take more than 324 years to clear the backlog. The Covid-19 pandemic has increased the backlog of 30-year-old cases by 61 per cent over the last two years across the country.

The data also shows that the length of time that it takes to adjudicate some cases have increased phenomenally over the years. Legal experts believe that giving repeating adjournments in a case also leads to high pendency.

Experts also points towards inadequate infrastructure in subordinate courts as a big factor that is driving delays.

India to take part in drills with PLA and Pak army

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

AS part of the military diplomacy, the Army will witness bilateral and multilateral military exercises in next three months. These will include at least two exercises where the armies of India and China will take part together for the first time since the LAC standoff in May 2020.

"There are seven military bilateral and multilateral exercises lined up between August and September with SCO (Shanghai Cooperation Organization) Peace Mission Exercise and Zapad-2021," said a source. The Pakistan Army has also been invited which, if it attends, will be present for the first time at any such platform post the February reiteration of the Ceasefire Agreement between the two countries.

The Peace Mission Exercise is an anti-terrorist command and staff drill, being conducted in Russia from September 11 to 25. The Indian contingent will have 200 personnel comprising troops from all three forces.

The Army will also be participating in the Zapad-2021 along with them, also being held in Russia from September 3 to 17, where troops of 17 countries including China and Pakistan have been invited.

There are five more international exercises where Indian Army will be participating.

Panel seeks report into casteist attack on Olympian's family

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Dehradun

UTTARAKHAND Human Rights Commission has asked the senior superintendent of police of Haridwar district to submit a report on the alleged incident in which youngsters hurled casteist slurs outside the house of Vandana Kataria— a member of the Indian women's hockey team that competed in Tokyo Olympics.

Meanwhile, Kataria has urged her family to keep calm. She said the nation wil give the culprits a befitting reply.

"Vandana told us not to react and let the law of the land take the course. She also added that the people of the country are watching everything and they know what is right and what is wrong. She insisted that we keep our cool and be calm," Pankaj Kataria, her brother said. The police have already a registered case and arrested two men.

Two men accused of hurdling the slurs—Sumit Chauhan and Vijay Pal—are from the same village.

Haridwar Police has registered a case against them under Section 504 (Intentional insult with intent to provoke breach of the peace) and Section 3 in the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes Act, 1989.

Her family members alleged that after the news of Indian women's hockey team's defeat to Argentina broke, a group of people started bursting crackers and hurling casteist slurs outside her home.

Earlier on Wednesday, Savita Kataria sister-in-law of Vandana Kataria said that she will die by suicide if action was not taken against the culprits, following which the case was registered.

Tomar faces anger of flood-hit MP constituency

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bhopal

NARENDRA Singh Tomar, the Union agriculture minister and local BJP MP, faced mass protests by local residents in the flood-hit Sheopur town of Madhya Pradesh during his visit there on Saturday.

The protestors also tried to push and shove Tomar while he was walking through crowded streets.

The police had a tough time in laying a protective cordon around the union minister, sources in Sheopur told this daily.

The angry residents tried to block the passage of the minister's motorcade, and threw black flags, broom and mud on it. They have alleged that the flood situation in the Amral and Seep rivers was mismanaged, causing the entire Sheopur town to be marooned.

Toll rises to 24 in Gwalior-Chambal
The official toll due to floods and rain-related mishaps in eight districts of the Gwalior-Chambal region has risen to 24. So far 1,250 villages in eight districts have been affected by rains and floods in the region and 9,000 people have been rescued

Tomar said the anger of the people is understandable. "We are committed to rehabilitation of people and rebuilding of infrastructure. Four officials have been deployed in Sheopur alone to take care of the district," he said.

Residents, mainly traders and families in the Ganesh Bazar area, have suffered substantial losses after flood waters inundated their shops. Ganesh Bazar is the town's main market.As many as six deaths have been reported in the Sheopur district due to floods and rain-related mishaps since July 28. Its direct road to the Baran and Sawai Madhopur districts of Rajasthan has been cut off.

Residents had staged similar protests in Sheopur town on Thursday too.

'CM candidate' Priyanka's task cut out for UP Assembly polls

Rejuvenating Congress at grassroots, raising its visibility among her key challenges

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

WILL Congress leader Priyanka Gandhi Vadra be projected as Uttar Pradesh CM candidate in 2022 polls? The Congress remains tight-lipped, but she does not rule out the possibility.

"It is too early to give any such projection. Let the appropriate time come," the Congress general secretary told a group of media persons in mid-July.

The onus of rejuvenating the party ever since she entered active politics in 2019 in the country's biggest and politically most crucial state has rested with Priyanka.

She was on a three-day trip to the state last month – her first in a year-and-a-half with a mission to put the house in order. She met a few senior Congress leaders and urged them to bring the party's young guns and the old guard on the same page.

"Her visit was primarily meant to pep up party workers," said a senior leader.

State Congress chief Ajai Kumar Lallu concedes that the party is facing many challenges. "Reviving the organisation at the grassroots, making the leaders at the district level realise their importance and increasing the party's visibility are a few tough challenges," he says.

In the 2019 Lok Sabha polls, Priyanka had to look after the poll management of her mother Sonia Gandhi in Rae Bareli and Rahul Gandhi in Amethi, besides overseeing the party throughout the state. The result was disappointing: the Congress lost its bastion of Amethi and won just one seat in Rae Bareli.

Priyanka Gandhi Vadra

So, 2022 assumes significance for her. The period from now on would test her organisational skills and poll management as the party would need her popularity to take on the saffron juggernaut.

The Congress is at its lowest ebb in the UP assembly with just seven MLAs, of whom two are rebels. "Over the last three decades, the party has lost its sheen in UP; its organisation has touched the nadir. Priyanka has the paramount duty to regain that ground and increase the party's strength in the UP legislature. Whether she will be able to do it is a moot question," says Prof AK Mishra, a political observer.

Vote base of Congress in last two decades in UP

Year	Seats contested	Seat won	Vote share
2002	402	25	8.96%
2007	393	22	8.61%
2012	355	28	11.65%
2017	114	07	6.25%

When Priyanka was appointed general secretary in 2019, the party had a 500-member state executive committee. She pruned it to 115. Lallu, a leader belonging to the backward class, was made the state unit chief.

Now the UPCC executive has 16 general secretaries and six vice-presidents. The caste balance was kept in mind while re-constituting it.

Of 115 members, 34% belong to upper castes and backwards, 17% are Muslims and 12% SCs/STs. One per cent of the members come from the Sikh community while the rest 2% belong to other groups.

At the district level, the party has been reorganised with 36 of 75 district presidents coming from upper castes, 12 are Muslim and 19 are backwards.

"Didi has taken feedback about leaders who are recognised at the grassroots level and has appointed them as district chiefs. The party is in the process of setting up a 21-member committee across 58,000 gram panchayats for better communication with the people," says the UPCC chief. "Veterans are being used in different committees set up at the state level to bring the party into active mode before the polls."

Top party sources say the identification of poll candidates has started with around 160-165 names being finalised. Priyanka is also concentrating on booth management and training is being imparted to party workers in Chhattisgarh.

"The party wants to replicate the performance of Chhattisgarh in Uttar Pradesh," said a senior leader.

Blockade killing Covid patients, says Mizoram

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Guwahati

MIZORAM Minister R Lalthangliana on Saturday said the blockade imposed on the state by Assam groups has led to the deaths of people who were under treatment for Covid-19.

"Covid patients are dying for want of medicines. Seriously ill patients are in dire need of life-saving drugs," the minister said in a video.

He, however, did not specify the number of people who died for want of medicines as a result of the blockade. However, official sources said about 25 people died as a result of the blockade.

"Shortage of medicines, due to the economic blockade, was a major factor that led to a quick deterioration of their health," Mina Zoliani, who is the deputy director of DIPR, told this newspaper.

Meanwhile, some Mizoram-bound vehicles were released on Saturday from the Mizoram House at Silchar in Assam's Cachar district under the protection of Assam Police, but they were reportedly attacked by miscreants in Lailapur in the district.

Two Assam ministers on Saturday visited the interstate border in Cachar district and urged the locals to lift the economic blockade and allow vehicles to move to Mizoram.

Sena to make Aaditya its face in 2022 BMC polls

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

THE Shiv Sena has decided to make environment minister Aaditya Thackeray the face of its campaign for the Brihanmumbai Municipal Corporation election. Sources said that Chief Minister and Aaditya's father Uddhav Thackeray has asked him to lead in the hustings and take a greater role in Sena's scheme of things. Sources said that the rationale behind the decision is to transform Aaditya from a youth leader into a seasoned politician. "He is already holding meetings with corporators and overseeing the completion of projects before the model code of conduct is announced," the source said.

Aaditya is also the guardian minister of suburban Mumbai. "As Sena is in power, Uddhav, also the chief of the party, wishes to see most projects completed before switching on the campaign mode. This is also a chance for Aaditya to establish himself as a mass leader," said the source. Aaditya's focus is on Mumbai and its infrastructure. "He has initiated the Mithi River clean-up drive by tying up with Marine Debris Partnership of Finland. This machine will collect the floating garbage and plastic from the river and clean the river and recycle it. In tune with the aspirations of the youth, he is also focusing on sustainable development.

Thousands in Bihar donate bricks for foundation of delayed AIIMS

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ Patna

PEOPLE have been known to donate bricks for building religious sites, but perhaps for the first time people are donating bricks for a foundation stone of an AIIMS.

Thousands of people, mostly youths and students, are collecting bricks from households for a proposed All India Institute of Medical Sciences (AIIMS) site at Darbhanga in northern Bihar

In 2015, the second AIIMS for Bihar at Darbhanga was announced by the central government at an estimated cost of ₹1,265 crore. But not a single brick has been laid on the ground.

Now the people of the region have launched, through an initiative of Mithila Students Union, a campaign for the AIIMS site foundation. "We are in this kind of new satyagrah, by seeking people's support through bricks for AIIMS, which exhibits a symbolic, collective protest against the inordinate delay in laying the foundation for the AIIMS," said Anup Maithil, founder of Mithila Students Union and the brain behind this initiative.

He said that this campaign with a slogan "ghar ghar se eta laynge, AIIMS yanhi banaynge" (Will bring bricks from every household and build the AIIMS here) started on August 1 and will continue for 30 days.

In the past six days, more than 50,000 bricks, "AIIMS" written on each of them, have been donated by people in Darbhanga and districts such as Madhubani, Saharsa, Samastipur and Supual.

U'khand BJP hires sleuths to get pulse of people

VINEET UPADHYAY @ Dehradun

THE Uttarakhand unit of the BJP has hired a private agency for a 'confidential survey' to get the pulse of the people in all the 70 Assembly segments. A senior party leader said that the results of this survey would help the leadership decide on ticket distribution for the 2022 Assembly polls.

"The first phase of the survey is underway. Second phase will start on September 15, while the third phase will kick off on October 25. This will help the party get a sense of the ground realities in all the 70 Assembly constituencies, which will be taken into account when ticket distribution begins," said a senior party leader. Each leg of the survey would span 40 days.

The party is also collating information on MLAs time-spending pattern. The information would comprise who spends more time in Delhi and other cities than in their constituencies. This would help the leadership gauge anti-incumbency sentiments.

"We have received complaints that many MLAs do not give time to the people of their constituencies. We are also looking into that," added the party leader. This has strengthened the talks that many incumbent MLAs might not get tickets for the upcoming election.

CPM Bengal slammed for poor poll strategy

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Kolkata

THE West Bengal unit of the CPM on Friday was roundly criticised by its compatriots from other states for its tactical mistakes resulting in a dismal show in the Assembly election, during which the party failed to win even a single seat in a House of 294.

Functionaries of the Central Committee – the second highest body of the CPM – from Andhra Pradesh, Kerala and Telangana, among others, said the tactical line of equating Modi with Mamata was a serious mistake that damaged the party's electoral prospects. The criticism was leveled on the first day of the party Congress, which sought to analyse the Assembly election results in five states—West Bengal, Assam, Kerala, Puducherry and Tamil Nadu.

Our strategy of equating the TMC with the BJP might have been wrong. But it cannot be identified as the sole reason for the debacle
A senior Bengal leader

"The leaders did not portray the BJP as its prime enemy; instead they equated the BJP with the TMC. They erred in alleging that the TMC and the BJP had an understanding between themselves. This confused the party supporters and affected the traditional voters," said a Central Committee member. In their defence, the Bengal leaders said they had followed the strategy adopted during the previous party Congress to unite democratic and secular forces.

Fires rampage through forests in Greece, thousands evacuated

THRAKOMAKEDONES

WILD FIRES rampaged through massive swaths of Greece's last remaining forests for yet another day on Saturday, encroaching on more inhabited areas after burning scores of homes, businesses and farms.

In neighbouring Turkey, fires described as the worst in decades have swept through stretches of the country's southern coast for the past 10 days, killing eight people.

A fire threatening the Greek capital's most important national park killed one volunteer firefighter, while at least 20 people have been injured in blazes during the country's worst heat wave in 30 years. Thousands of residents and vacationers have fled approaching flames by land and by sea.

In apocalyptic scenes overnight and into Saturday, ferries evacuated 1,153 people from a seaside village and beaches on Evia, an island of rugged, forested mountains popular with holidaymakers and campers, after flames from a massive wildfire burning for days cut off all other means of escape. People clutched babies and carried older adults on chairs as they boarded the small ferries to safety. Another major blaze was burning in the southern Peloponnese region of Mani, where the deputy mayor of East Mani, Eleni Drakoulakou, told state broadcaster ERT that 70% of her area had been destroyed.

2nd Afghan city falls as Taliban tighten noose

After abandoning countryside, Govt forces are scrambling to defend a string of cities

KABUL

THE Taliban seized the stronghold of a notorious Afghan warlord on Saturday, officials said, the second provincial capital to fall to the insurgents in under 24 hours.

The deputy governor of Jawzjan province said he was with government forces who had abandoned Sheberghan city and retreated to the airport on its outskirts, where they were preparing to defend themselves.

The city is home to warlord Abdul Rashid Dostum, who only returned to Afghanistan this week from medical treatment in Turkey, but is currently in Kabul.

Aides said he was meeting with President Ashraf Ghani on Saturday in an attempt to persuade the country's leader to fly in reinforcements.

"We have demanded the government deploys at least 500 commandos so we could work to retake the city," said his party's spokesman, Ehsan Niro.

The Taliban have taken control of vast tracts of rural Afghanistan since early May when they launched a series of offensives to coincide with the start of the final withdrawal of foreign troops.

Afghan government forces largely abandoned the countryside to the insurgents, but are now scrambling to defend a string of cities.

The war has also returned to the capital, with a senior government information official shot dead in the street on Friday, three days after the defence minister survived a brazen assassination attempt involving a car bomb and Taliban hit squad.

Qader Malia, deputy governor of Jawzjan province, said Sheberghan had "unfortunately fallen", but interior ministry spokesman Marwais Stanikzai insisted the insurgents held only parts of the city.

"The security forces, backed by reinforcements and the uprising forces, will once again clear the city from the terrorists," he said in a video message to media.

That has been a familiar response to most Taliban gains of recent weeks, although government forces have so far largely failed to make good on promises to retake dozens of districts and border posts.

"The Taliban are everywhere, with their flags, but from what I see through the window the streets are deserted and we do not dare leave our homes," he said, asking not to be named.

"The fighting has subsided inside the city... but we hear that the Taliban are moving towards the airport." AFP

Man held for stabbing 10 passengers on Tokyo train

TOKYO

JAPANESE police on Saturday said they arrested a man who stabbed 10 passengers on a commuter train in Tokyo hours earlier, in what Japanese media reported to be a random burst of violence unrelated to the ongoing Olympic Games.

The 36-year-old man told police he wanted to kill women who appeared happy, and chose his targets at random, public broadcaster NHK said. The initial victim, a woman in her 20s, was in serious condition, according to NHK and other Japanese media. Police identified the attacker as Yusuke Tsushima.

The Tokyo Fire Department said nine of the 10 injured passengers were taken to nearby hospitals, while the 10th was able to walk away. All of the injured were conscious, fire department officials said.

The Japanese capital is currently hosting the Olympics, which end Sunday. The site of the stabbing spree was about 15km away from the main National Stadium.

The man dropped his knife after the handle broke and fled, and later walked into a convenience store and identified himself as the suspect on the news, and said he was tired of running away, according to Japanese media. The store manager called police after seeing bloodstains on the man's shirt. AP

Wildfires endanger villages, fuel site, in Russia's Siberia

Moscow: Wildfires in Russia's vast Siberia region endangered several villages Saturday and prompted authorities to evacuate residents of some areas. In northeastern Siberia, 93 active forest fires burned across 2.8 million acres of Sakha-Yakutia, officials said, making it the worst affected region of Russia. A fire engulfed dozens of houses in the village of Byas-Kuel, and all village residents were evacuated, according to the local task force dealing with the emergency. Fires also burned close to the villages of Kytyl-Dyura, Sinsk, Yedyai and several other settlements. High winds exacerbated the danger of flames spreading quickly. In the village of Sangary, emergency teams were taking urgent steps to protect a threatened fuel supply facility. AP

Israel strikes Hamas targets after launch of fire balloons

Ramallah: Israeli warplanes struck two targets in the Gaza Strip early on Saturday, the Israeli military said, in response to incendiary balloons launched from Gaza into Israel. The Israeli military struck what it said was a Hamas military compound and a rocket launching site after four incendiary balloons were launched into Israel, setting fire to land and damaging agriculture. There were no reports of casualties in Israel or Gaza. There was no immediate comment from Hamas. Israeli media reported that four fires caused by incendiary balloons broke out Friday in areas close to the Gaza Strip. AP

US probe on to find $5,800 bottle of whiskey

Washington: The whereabouts of a $5,800 bottle of Japanese whiskey that was gifted to former US Secretary of State Mike Pompeo is baffling the state department which has launched an inquiry into what happened to the expensive booze, according to media reports. The US Department of State is looking into the whereabouts of the bottle, CNN reported, citing state department filings in the federal register. The government of Japan gifted the whiskey to Pompeo in 2019, the document says. The department took the unusual step of noting that the whereabouts of the whiskey is unknown. Similar filings over the past two decades make no mention of any similar investigations, The New York Times reported. "The department is looking into the matter and has an ongoing inquiry," the filing said. But it is unclear if Pompeo himself received the whiskey or if a staffer accepted it. PTI

50 arrested, 150 booked for attack on Hindu temple in Pakistan

LAHORE

PAKISTAN'S law enforcement agencies on Saturday arrested over 50 people, including the main suspects, allegedly involved in an attack on a Hindu temple in a remote town of the country's Punjab province, a day after the Supreme Court admonished the authorities for their failure to protect the shrine.

> We will make sure that no such incident happens (in the future). Besides, the restoration work of the temple has been underway in full speed
>
> Usman Buzdar, Punjab CM

They also booked 150 people in connection with the attack on Wednesday. A mob attacked the temple at Bhong city of Rahim Yar Khan district of the province, some 590 kms from Lahore, in protest against the release of an eight-year-old Hindu boy, who was arrested for allegedly urinating in a local seminary. "More than 50 suspects have been arrested so far through analysis of video footages in a shameful ransacking incident at a temple in Rahim Yar Khan," Punjab Chief Minister Usman Buzdar tweeted. "We will make sure that no such incident happens (in the future). Besides, the restoration work of the temple has been underway in full speed," he said. He also shared the photographs of some of the arrested people on his social media account.

District Police Officer (DPO) of Rahim Yar Khan Asad Sarfraz said that all "main suspects" in the temple attack case have been arrested.

An FIR has been registered under terrorism and other sections of the Pakistan Penal Code against over 150 people for their involvement in attacking the temple, he said. Pakistan's Supreme Court on Friday pulled up authorities for failing to stop the attack and ordered the arrest of the culprits, observing that the incident has tarnished the image of the country abroad.

Chief Justice of Pakistan Gulzar Ahmed said that vandalism at the temple had brought shame to the country as police acted like silent spectators.

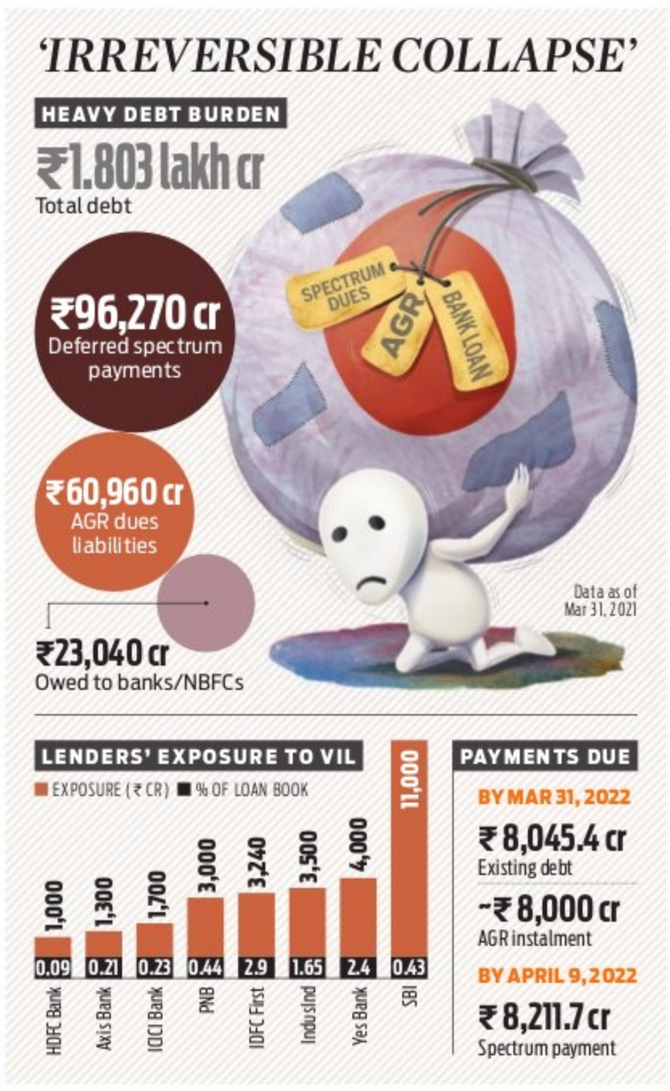
Not just lenders, users & staff; VIL collapse will hit govt the hardest

Liabilities include deferred spectrum obligations of ₹96,270 cr and ₹60,960 cr AGR dues

JONATHAN ANANDA @Chennai



INDIA'S third largest telecom service provider, Vodafone Idea Ltd IL), is struggling with a liquidity problem of such magnitude that it is inches away from bankruptcy. The fallout from such a collapse would be widespread, which will be felt by the company's subscribers, employees, lenders, and the telecom sector as well. Without VIL, India's telecom market, which once boasted of over a dozen operators, would be reduced to an effective duopoly.

But the biggest loser if VIL goes bust will be the government. Because not only will it have to deal with fixing a wounded sector and assuaging the battered confidence of foreign investors, it will also bear the brunt of the financial losses arising from such a collapse.

VIL's slide into crisis

The genesis of VIL's current troubles may be placed quite squarely on the outcome of the over 14-year-long adjusted gross revenue (AGR) case at the Supreme Court.

The matter revolved around the definition of AGR, based on which telcos pay their statutory dues to the government. The telcos argued that AGR should not include non-telecom revenue; the Department of Telecommunications (DoT) disagreed.

Eventually, in October 2019, the SC delivered a verdict favouring the government and directed telcos to pay up their pending AGR dues along with interest and penalties. According to the DoT's computations, this figure came out to a whopping ₹1.52 lakh crore, and the largest burdens fell on Vodafone Idea (₹58,000 crore) and Bharti Airtel (₹43,000 crore). Reliance Jio, a late entrant, got away with a liability of just ₹191 crore.

After a series of appeals and petitions, telcos managed to get an extended 10-year payment schedule comprising annual instalments from the courts, but the SC has not budged on the amount that is due.

Now, the AGR verdict left both Airtel and VIL in financial trouble, but Airtel's liquidity position was not as strained as the latter's and it managed to raise enough capital through 2020 to offset the dent its AGR obligations delivered.

Things haven't been the same for VIL. While its board has approved raising ₹25,000 crore of capital, it has met with little success so far, and both its promoters-the Aditya Birla Group and British telecom giant Vodafone Plc-have ruled out additional capital infusions. In fact, Vodafone Plc disclosed in December 2019 that it has written down the value of VIL on its books to nil.

VIL's current status, after taking large losses due to provisions for the AGR liabilities and a steadily shrinking subscriber base, is that as of March 31 this year, it had a massive debt of ₹ 1.8 lakh crore-with around ₹23,000 crore in various payments coming due between December 2021 and April 2022. On the opposite column, it had cash and cash equivalents of just over ₹350 crore.

With little success in its fundraising attempts, analysts note that VIL just doesn't have enough cash to pay up when the time comes. And a series of developments over the past few weeks have only cemented this view.

The Supreme Court has rejected a petition to correct alleged "arithmetic errors" in the Department of Telecommunications' (DoT) computation of AGR dues-a petition that, if entertained, could have halved VIL's AGR liabilities; a letter to the Cabinet Secretary written by Aditya Birla group chairman Kumar Mangalam Birla, VIL's Indian promoters, has come to light, where he has offered their stake to the Government of India (GoI) in order to keep the company running for its 27 crore subscribers; and then, just a few days later, Birla went on to step down as non-executive chairman of VIL, throwing the company's stock into high volatility territory.

Broad spectrum damage

VIL is still India's third largest telecom operator (it was once the largest) and the impact of its collapse would have far reaching effects.

If VIL defaults on future payments and is taken to bankruptcy court, the first hit will be taken by the company's lenders such as banks and financial institutions which are owed around ₹23,000 crore in total. According to a report by Nomura, eight banks have large exposures to VIL, led by SBI, which is owed ₹11,000 crore. But, in terms of its total loan book, this comprises just 0.43%. Some large lenders include Yes Bank (₹4,000 crore, 2.4% of book), IDFC First (₹3,240 crore, 2.9% of book), and IndusInd Bank (₹3,500 crore, 1.65% of book). Other lenders have smaller exposures comprising less than half a per cent of their loan books.

The problem when telecom companies go to bankruptcy court, as noted by an industry insider who spoke to TNIE requesting anonymity, is that there isn't much in terms of assets that can be sold or monetised except for their valuable spectrum licences. "But the NCLAT has now ruled in the RCom case that these licences can't be part of any resolution plan unless the statutory dues on them are paid to the government. If not, these licenses revert to the government. So, the lenders will have to take a huge haircut," the executive noted.

But still, according to Nomura, a VIL default would be a "minor hiccup" for banks. Not so for other stakeholders in the saga. Take the subscribers and the telecom market, for instance. Without a third private player in contention, it would turn into an effective duopoly, with Airtel and Reliance Jio the only options, other than the public sector BSNL-MTNL combine. And while, like during the collapse of RCom, other telcos can absorb Vodafone Idea's users over time, it will require money. "The companies that are looking to absorb these users will have to spend more on infrastructure, and it will be done," said an executive with a telecom infrastructure firm.

While VIL does not disclose employee data, industry sources say there are around 10,000 direct employees and several thousands more employed in the distribution system, with vendors, and in different points on the value chain, and all of them would all be impacted.

Vodafone Idea Ltd, Vodafone Plc, Aditya Birla group, and the DoT did not offer any comments.

GoI may be biggest loser

But even this may pale in comparison to what the government stands to lose. Because out of VIL's total debt of ₹1.8 lakh crore, it owes the government ₹96,270 crore in deferred spectrum obligations and ₹60,960 crore of AGR obligations-86% of VIL's total liabilities. If VIL goes bust, the government stands to lose much of this.

"It could receive the spectrum licences in the NCLT if no AGR is paid and it can auction them out again, but even the recent auction could sell only a fraction of the spectrum on offer. So, it will be tough to find bidders or get much value," said the industry executive.

According to experts, it is almost inevitable that both the government and the lenders will take huge haircuts if VIL is put through an insolvency resolution process.

Time for a white knight

As things stand, the consensus among both industry insiders and analysts is that the company urgently needs a rescue in order to prevent widespread damage. With a bankruptcy and resolution process looking quite unattractive to most stakeholders, there's been pressure on the government to extend relief. Last week, sources said that officials from the Prime Minister's Office and the DoT discussed a possible relief package for the sector that may include relaxations on future AGR payments and other statutory dues.

However, even if a relief package is delivered soon as is widely expected, there is a strong body of opinion that the GoI should act on KM Birla's offer and nationalise the company.

"KM Birla's offer to give up his stake to give a potential lease of life to Vi and its customers should be welcomed and all options explored," says V K Vijayakumar, Chief Investment Strategist at Geojit Financial Services, in a research note this week.

While government sources have pointed to the difficulty of taking such a measure, especially considering the government's own financial situation, analysts say that if it does not act to keep VIL afloat, it stands to lose a lot more in prospective revenue.

Deutsche Bank went into more detail on how the government could effect such a measure. "The only viable solution is for the government to recapitalise Vi by converting its debt into equity, preferably while merging it with BSNL, and then providing it a clear commercial mandate based on profitability targets and incentives," it noted.

NEWSCOPE

MBS, KHASHOGGI AND THE MAKING OF A ROGUE STATE

GURBIR SINGH

WE know the tragic story of Jamal Khashoggi. Lured into the Saudi embassy in Istanbul, the journalist-dissident was set upon and murdered on 2nd October, 2018 by a government hit squad hiding in the premises. The assassination, it emerged, was ordered by Saudi Crown Prince Mohammed bin Salman.

What we didn't know till recently is Saudi Arabia, an important Pegasus spyware client of the NSO Group, had used the spyware to monitor a huge circle of Khashoggi's friends and family. NSO denied it then. "I can tell you very clear. We had nothing to do with this horrible murder," Shalev Hulio, the chief executive of the Israeli surveillance firm, told the US TV news programme '60 Minutes' in March 2019.

This claim is now proving hollow. An investigation by the London 'Guardian' three weeks ago exposed how the spyware was used in 2018 to snoop on Khashoggi's wife, Hanan Elatr, and fiancée, Hatice Cengiz, and possibly plot his murder.

More evidence

In recent days there is more on Saudi Arabia. The US Justice department is currently opposing a court case by a bunch of Saudi government-controlled companies who are targeting Saad Aljabri, a counter-terrorism expert who had worked closely with the US and Saudi's counter-terrorism chief, Prince Mohammed bin Nayef. In the succession war for the throne, he fell out with the powerful Mohammed bin Salman, also known as MBS, and fled to Canada in 2017. However, MBS and the Saudis have been hounding him since with embezzlement cases.

Aljabri now claims that the Saudis and MBS had sent an assassination squad to Canada to try to kill him, and that members of the squad were part of the team that murdered Khashoggi. He has also said two of his children are being held hostage in Saudi Arabia.

The term 'rogue state' has been at various times being used against North Korea and Kim Jong-un, Cuba, Libya under Moammar Gaddafi, Iran and many others who don't fall in the US scheme of things. But if the above evidence against Saudi Arabia does not amount to a 'Rogue State' what does?

Various US presidents since Ronald Reagan in 1985 have used the term 'rogue state' to describe and bring sanctions against those regimes that defy international law, do not respect human rights, commit mass genocide and carry out terror operations.

Sordid credentials

A close look at Saudi Arabia, and it satisfies all these credentials. The 2020 Amnesty International report says repression has been institutionalised in the country. Anybody known as a human rights defender, or an online critic of the government finds himself in jail after a quick kangaroo court trial. Special treatment is reserved for the Shia minority and migrants who have no citizen rights.

Saudi Crown Prince Mohammed bin Salman, also known as MBS

Even members of the royal family who are seen as a threat to MBS or express liberal leanings are quickly disposed of. A Saudi princess, Basmah bin Saud bin Abdulaziz Al-Saud, was arrested in March 2019 for the offence of trying to travel outside the kingdom illegally. She's still in jail. In March last year, in a palace coup, Crown Prince Mohammed bin Salman detained three members of the royal family, including a brother of the king and a former crown prince who could challenge him in line to the throne.

Beyond its borders, Saudi Arabia has been waging a genocidal war against Yemen, the poorest of the Arab countries. The transition of power from longtime President Ali Abdullah Saleh to his deputy Adbdrabbuh Mansour Hadi went awry in 2011, triggering a civil war between the Shia Houti tribesmen and government forces.

The Saudis have led the intervention on the Yemeni government side, with huge civilian casualties inflicted by the Saudi Airforce. The humanitarian crisis is huge. Thousands of civilians have been killed in the bombings. The charity, Save the Children, estimated that 85,000 children with severe acute malnutrition might have died between April 2015 and October 2018.

While there is derisive condemnation of North Koutocrat Kim Jong-un, and rapid intervention against Sadaam Husain's imaginary Weapons of Mass Destruction (WMDs), the US has been propping up the Saudi regime. There is reason: It is the Middle-East's policeman. Saudi Arabia also has one-fifth of the world's known oil reserves; and with production of 10-12 million barrels a day, it has a determining influence on crude prices. No wonder, the widely expected sanctions by the US over the Khashoggi killing never came.

In fact, knocking off people they don't like — long-range — is something the CIA specialises in too. In January last year, an Iranian Army commander, Qasem Soleimani, was assassinated by a US-coordinated drone attack. This provoked distinguished Left Wing linguist Noam Chomsky to call out the US as a 'rogue state'.

As long as the big powers continue to support and use regimes like the Saudis, rogue states will continue to thrive. Unless Joe Biden keeps his word and calls for course correction.

NEERAJ CHOPRA

ON TRAINING

Technical sport. I improved gradually, corrected weaknesses. Klaus Bartonietz (bio-mechanical expert) has a lot of experiences. He understands techniques, he also understands my body. He has worked with throwers in different countries.

FIRST TWO THROWS

It was important, a good distance will put more pressure on the other athletes. After second attempt, I knew that this was my best throw. I could not have thought about gold at that stage as I was thinking of improving my throws.

POST WINNING GOLD

Cannot find words, but everything changed when I knew I won. At the runway (during his sixth attempt) also I was thinking about it. I got injured in 2019. After the Olympics was postponed, I decided not to take it negatively.

ON OLD COACHES

When I didn't know anything, they helped me. Whoever you started out with, you musn't ever forget them. There is this guy, a fellow thrower, who had lots of injuries. He helped me a lot but he couldn't continue his career because of injuries.

WHAT LIES AHEAD

The main focus this year was the Olympics, I tried for the Olympic record and gave my full power but I couldn't get it... I have given my 100%, that (Olympics) was my main focus. If I get visa for training abroad now, then I will think about it.

VETTER AND PRESSURE

Your day matters. World ranking doesn't matter at the Olympics. I respect him (Johannes Vetter), he is a great thrower. I felt sad when I saw him go out. As for pressure, when I'm on the runway I just focus on my javelin

INDRANEEL DAS @Chennai

SEVEN steps to crossover, release and follow-through. The velocity shifts from the lower body to the hands and then to the javelin. It moves through the air with a drag force losing speed, it turns towards the earth, glides and pierces the ground. Unlike other sports, in javelin, every part of your body plays a part in throwing the spear. And if you have a mind like Neeraj Chopra — calm yet determined — you have the complete package, a champion.

Mentally, Neeraj is extraordinary. This was his first Olympics. He is just 23 yet he was not overwhelmed by the enormity of the stage and that invisible pressure of expectation. As soon as he threw the spear to a distance of 87.03m in his first attempt, he became more relaxed.

That was part of a plan his team had come up with. "We wanted a big first throw," Klaus Bartonietz, a bio mechanics expert who works with Neeraj, told this daily. Post that throw, confidence was flowing.

Such was the confidence that during the break he was smiling and waving when the TV cameras panned towards him. On the other hand, Johannes Vetter, the man who cleared 90m some seven times this season, literally lost his footing after a poor first throw. "That first throw really eased off the pressure," Neeraj said.

If someone thought Neeraj's effort a fluke, think twice. The thrower had been improving ever since he won the junior world championships in 2016 with a throw of 86.48m — a junior world record. His form dipped in the following year. His elbow used to drop during throw and the velocity was not transferring to the spear. Legendary javelin thrower and coach Uwe Hohn was hired. However, not much improvement was seen. His elbow started to drop and it took additional stress.

In 2019, Neeraj was forced to go under the knife. The surgery forced him out of Doha World Championships and the entire year was lost. At times, he was so dejected that he didn't know how well he would recover. The Athletics Federation of India needed a second javelin coach and they hired Bartonietz. Their relationship blossomed and it spilled over to the ground.

Bartonietz himself is a calm man. A lover of nature, his next target is to summit Germany's highest peak when he returns home after one year. A day before the big event on Saturday, the two spent time joking and fooling around. Not discussing much of the competition, the two preferred to relax. But getting proper sleep before the big event was simply out of question. Neeraj too had difficulty.

Neeraj is also a product of a system that at times was flawed but worked. From AFI to Sports Authority of India and JSW, each stakeholder had played a role in his journey from the Patiala to Tokyo. Scientific training, nutrition, physios and masseurs all were part of that backroom support.

The training regimen was chalked out and first thing the team did was to make him relax. The point of release and the elbow angles were dissected time and again until it met perfection. Like a devoted pupil, Neeraj followed. Change of the Nordic Vallhala javelin also worked. According to Bartonietz, this was done because the javelin travels smoothly and far. "We had to work on his body — from run-up to crossover to release and follow through," he said. The pressure from the elbow was minimised.

The boy who was once teased for being obese, has given India gold. A story that would remain etched for ever.

VETTER HAPPY FOR THE CHAMP

His own shock exit from the Olympics notwithstanding, superstar German javelin thrower Johannes Vetter said he was happy for his good friend Neeraj Chopra. Vetter had come into the Olympics as a hot favourite for gold, having thrown 90m plus on seven occasions between April and June but he was shockingly eliminated after the first three throws in the final, placed ninth with a best effort of 82.52m. "He (Neeraj) is a really talented guy, always really friendly."

THEY SPEAK

Today is truly a momentous day for Indian athletics. My heartiest congratulations to Neeraj, coach Dr Klause and the entire support team of doctors, physios, nutritionists and sports science specialists. This medal brings with it a day of great jubilation and pride for me personally, for the Athletics Federation of India, for Indian sport and of course for Neeraj and his family.

Hugs, dance and music, his village comes alive

HARPREET BAJWA @Chandigarh

KHANDRA had never seen a festival like this. Strangers hugged, sweets were bought, the sound of drums reverberated across the village and people danced to their heart's content. It was only fair because Neeraj Chopra, one of the sons of Khandra soil, had gone to a place no Indian athlete had been to before. That place was the top step of the podium in track and field, one of the most prestigious programmes of the Olympics.

All his family members, friends and all those from the neighbourhood including small children at Khandra village, near Panipat (Haryana), where a tent was pitched, were watching the javelin final on a big screen. With many media persons present, Neeraj's family was busy attending the guests and getting congratulatory calls from several dignitaries.

His father Satish Kumar, who's into farming, was proud of his son's ground-breaking effort and thanked everyone for their blessings. "My son has made the country proud by winning the gold medal. As he has brought laurels for India, I very excited and proud. I thank the whole nation for their blessing. There were no sports facilities in our village and he had to go fifteen kilometres away for practice. In the Rio Olympics, we hoped he could get medal but he did not get the wild card entry," Satish said.

Naseem Ahmed, Neeraj's coach, said that Neeraj has always been a fighter. "When he came to Panchkula, he was between 80 to 90 kilograms. He was always quiet but on ground, aggressive as he fighter. He practised here from 2011 to 2015."

'Have fulfilled Milkha ji's dream today'

PTI @ Tokyo/New Delhi

NEERAJ CHOPRA dedicated his historic feat to sprint legend Milkha Singh, who passed away due to Covid-19 in June, a gesture that left his son and ace golfer Jeev Milkha Singh overwhelmed with "eternal" gratitude. "Milkha Singh wanted to hear the national anthem in a stadium. He is no longer with us but his dream has been fulfilled," he said, dedicating the feat to the iconic sprinter, who had finished fourth in the 1960 Rome Olympics.

Milkha, 91, breathed his last in Chandigarh in June after battling Covid-19 for a month.

"Dad waited so many years for this to happen. His dream has finally come true with India's first athletic gold. I am crying as I tweet this. And I am sure dad is crying up above. Thank you for making this happen," Jeev posted.

ANATOMY OF A JAVELIN THROW

1. Approach
The athlete is on top of the runway, which shouldn't be more than 36.5m but shouldn't be lesser than 30m. The competitors will lift the javelin near to their head. All of them will use one of three common grip types (American, Finnish and V). When they are ready, the 'approach' process begins. During this, they take their first steps while keeping the javelin head high. The arms are bent and the elbow points forward, like how you would stab a person significant taller than you.

2. Transition
The athletes build his/her speed without lengthening the stride. After reaching maximum speed, muscle memory takes over. Hand eye corodination is vital. Arm is fully stretched at optimum height, it's also vital to going fast as opposed to pushing the javelin back. The hips, shoulder, arms and legs must all be in sync to prepare for delivery.

3. Drive
The athlete takes a flatter drive step with the right leg before propelling forward with the left (this will be the other way round if the left arm is their throwing arm). Think about this moment as an all systems go. After this, there is no turning back. The tip of the javelin is now aligned with the eyebrows. A transfer of weight begins to take place to put all the power for the optimum throw. Before the actual point of throw, the thrower is now arcs backwards with the javelin approximately parallel to the shoulder.

4-5. The final release
The transfer of weight is complete. In one blink-and-you-miss moment, the thrower extends his front leg while also doing quickfire moments with his hip and shoulder. In one final whiplash moment, while the arm is still above the head, the release occurs. Even as the javelin soars above, the thrower will now have to be mindful of the line in front of him. He/she has to contain his forward momentum in order to not foul the throw.

Quiet the Games

Aditi misses out on medal by a whisker

ASHIM SUNAM @ Bengaluru

MILKHA Singh (1960, Rome), PT Usha (1984, Los Angeles), Leander Paes/Mahesh Bhupathi (2004, Athens), Joydeep Karmakar (2012, London), Dipa Karmakar (2016, Rio), India women's hockey team (2020, Tokyo). These are some of the remarkable 'so close, yet so far' fourth-place finishes for Indian athletes in the Olympics. Now, add one more to that ever-growing list, Aditi Ashok, who came agonisingly close to a medal, but lady luck had some other plans as she finished fourth by just one shot on Saturday.

I think it's good, just even top 5 or top 10 at an Olympics is really good. Just having more top finishes will maybe bring eyes to the sport and more support.

Aditi Ashok, Golfer

"No, I didn't know that actually. Obviously now that I've joined that (list)... You don't want to join that club, but yeah, I guess I've joined it. But no, I think it's good, just even top 5 or top 10 at an Olympics is really good. Because you know that sport or that person has a medal chance. So just having more top finishes, even if it's not exactly a podium finish, will maybe bring eyes to the sport and more support, more kids pick up more, whatever, that helps grow the game," said Aditi.

It was a heartbreaking moment for the girl from Bengaluru, who had finished her previous three rounds in the top three. That raised the hopes of a nation for a surprise medal at Tokyo. But, the day she slipped to fourth, it was the final round, shattering her dreams of an Olympic medal. For a very brief moment, she was even tied with eventual gold medallist, Nelly Korda for first place on Saturday.

Though she started the day in second place, Japan's Mone Inami (nine birdies, three bogeys) and New Zealand's Ko Ludia (nine birdies, three bogeys) upped their game to surge ahead and later won the silver and bronze medals, respectively. Compare that to Aditi's five birdies and two bogeys. Aditi was in for a shout until the end, but things didn't go as planned. Even if she had made a single birdie in one of the last four holes, things would have been better.

"Yeah, 17 was perfect. I hit it exactly the speed I wanted, the line I wanted, I just — maybe I made too many (birdies) through the four rounds, golfing gods were like we're not going to give her this one. But no, I just tried my best, even the last hole, although it was really out of range, it was almost a long putt, but I still tried to give it a chance. So I think I gave it my best attempt," she said. However, take nothing away from Aditi's performance at Tokyo. It will go down as one of the best displays by an Indian Olympian.

ATTACK WAS THE MANTRA FOR BAJRANG

Despite nursing knee injury, wrestler clinches 65kg bronze after outclassing Kazakh opponent Niyazbekov 8-0

FIROZ MIRZA @ Chennai

WITH no heavy strapping around his right knee, unlike Friday, wrestler Bajrang Punia has issued a warning to his Kazakh opponent Daulet Niyazbekov when he took the mat at the Makuhari Messe Hall for the bronze medal play-off on Saturday evening. The message was loud and clear. The Indian wrestler will be at his aggressive best irrespective of a knee injury he has been carrying into the Games.

The move seems to have given him a psychological edge over his rival, who in fact had won against him in the 2019 World Championships final, as Niyazbekov was put on the activity clock for being passive in the first period itself. It also earned Bajrang the first point of the most important bout of his career so far.

"The strategy was to attack from the beginning. No headlock, no fleeing away from the mat or the hold," Shako Bentinidis, Bajrang's Georgian coach, told this daily from Japan after the win. "Injury or not, the strategy was simple. Keep attacking as that is how Bhaji plays," added the coach.

Given the decision he has made going into the bout, Bajrang tried to attack the opponent's leg but didn't succeed initially. He, however, managed to push the opponent outside the mat earning another point and taking a lead of 2-0 after the first period of three minutes. "Bajrang gained the upper hand the moment he entered the mat without strapping or knee cap and that showed later in the bout. He was constantly putting his injured right leg forward inviting the Kazakh wrestler to get the hold of it. It gave him psychological edge, which only grew as the bout progressed," said Kripashankar Patel, former India wrestler and Railways coach.

Bajrang also admitted that the knee injury troubled him a lot at the Games. "I would have played different but for this injury. It indeed was an issue. It did trouble me and played on my mind. But I did not have the option to rest. After the semifinal, I had to give my all and I did that," the 65kg wrestler was quoted as saying after the win.

The Haryana wrestler was at his best in the second period as he kept attacking Niyazbekov's right leg and executed a takedown to earn two points. He repeated it soon to race to a 6-0 lead. And yet another attack on the left leg earned Bajrang two more points which took the bout away from his opponent.

"It was a do or die bout for Bajrang and the strategies must have been chalked accordingly. He had nothing to lose and he competed in that manner. Going all out was the only option and he didn't disappoint. The only regret which I have is that he should have played like this in the semifinal as well," opined Patel.

Despite clinching a medal at the grandest stage, Bajrang is not satisfied. "I am not happy. This is not the result I had set out to achieve. Winning an Olympic medal is no mean achievement but I can't jump with joy with bronze," he said.

Bajrang has a reason for being disappointed as the second-seed was expected at least to reach the final. The three-time World medallist, however, has time to redraw his strategies and come back stronger. For the moment, he can cherish the moment as he is the only seventh wrestler from the country to win an Olympic medal.

Hockey star Sumit used to work at dhaba as a boy

AYANTAN CHOWDHURY @ New Delhi

The dhaba where Sumit Kumar used to work as a youngster | SHEKHAR YADAV

TRAVELLING along NH 44, the first thing you notice after crossing Murthal are the numerous dhabas on both sides. It is a frequent jaunt of truck drivers as well as city folks. One among the 100-odd 24x7 eateries is Mohan Kamboj Dhaba. About 6 kms from the main chowk, one would not even bat an eyelid at it if not for a poster on its walls.

Indian hockey broke a 41-year jinx by clinching a bronze medal at the Tokyo Olympics. A member of the historic triumph was 24-year-old Sumit Kumar hailing from Kurad village near Murthal. It was at this dhaba that Sumit and his elder brother Amit used to come to work.

Both money and food were at a premium for the family of five. Parents Pratap Singh and Darshna Devi worked as daily-wagers to feed three sons. Sumit is the youngest, after Amit and Jai Singh. Despite having a bit of talent in hockey, Amit started working at Mohan Kamboj Dhaba in 2005 to help his family. A nine-year-old Sumit used to accompany his brother everywhere and ended up helping him there as well.

"I used to wake up at 4 am and go clean the premises. I used to attend practice afterwards and Sumit used to follow me around. On days when I got busy with practice or studies, he used to work on my behalf," Amit told this daily, gorging on their favourite parathas and daal. While monetary compensation those days was nothing to write home about, the job ensured three square meals a day for the family. One of the brothers, after finishing the chores of the day, would carry the parcelled food home.

"Those days, our menu was not as extensive as it is today. Parathas, daal, a vegetable curry of the day, that was all. They were two young, bright boys and tried to help as much as possible," co-owner Parveen Kamboj said. The dhaba, in those days, was run by his father after whom it has been named. The place has already received a lot of attention thanks to social media with people asking when Sumit will next visit the eatery.

Hockey was not Sumit's first love. The midfielder was quite good at wrestling, winning local junior dangals. But after seeing his brother get new clothes, Sumit decided to change his passion. While Amit had to give up the stick, Sumit scaled new heights and finally left the village when he got selected at SAI, Sonepat five years later. Grand celebrations have been planned for the favourite son's return. While the date is not final yet due to the Indian team's numerous commitments, work is already underway. A giant flex is in the making and it will be installed in front of the dhaba. Also, a grand roadshow from Sonepat to Kurad is in the offing along with lunch and dinner at the place where it all began!

Durant leads US to 4th straight basketball gold

NBA All-Star Kevin Durant hailed his team for overcoming adversity Saturday after pouring in a game-high 29 points to lead the United States past France 87-82 for a "beautiful" fourth straight Olympic men's basketball gold medal. The Americans started slowly but earned a 22-18 lead after the first quarter and were 44-39 ahead at halfway, then survived nervous late moments.

German coach thrown out for striking horse

A German modern pentathlon coach was thrown out of the Olympics on Saturday for striking a horse during the women's event. The International Modern Pentathlon Union said footage showed coach Kim Raisner "appearing to strike the horse... with her fist" and that "her actions were deemed to be in violation of (the rules)." The incident came as Germany's Annika Schleu was leading Friday's competition.

Sprint queen Felix wins 11th medal of career

AP @ Tokyo

ALLYSON Felix won her 11th career Olympic medal on Saturday, combining with her American teammates to finish the 4x400-metre relay in 3 minutes, 16.85 seconds for a runaway victory.

The team of Felix, Sydney McLaughlin, Dalilah Muhammad and Athing Mu was never in jeopardy in this one. It was America's seventh straight victory at the Olympics in the 4x400. Poland finished second, 3.68 seconds behind, and Jamaica finished third.

Felix, who became the most-decorated woman in Olympic track history when she won bronze in the 400 on Friday night, now passes Carl Lewis with the most track medals of any US athlete. Of the 11 medals, seven are gold.

Paavo Nurmi of Finland holds the all-time mark in track with 12 medals from 1920-28. "For me, I just really came out at peace and I wanted to soak it in completely," said Felix, who has a 2-year-old daughter back at home.

The win came on McLaughlin's 22nd birthday, and gave her another gold to go with the one she captured when she set a world record of 51.46 in the 400-metre hurdles earlier in the week.

The race featured four US medalists from the individual races — McLaughlin, Felix, Muhammad, who finished second in the hurdles, and Mu, who won gold in the 800.

It's an eclectic lineup: Two hurdlers, an 800 runner and Felix, who said she considers herself more of a 200 specialist. This was the sixth of Felix's medals that have come in the relays. Three more were in the 200 and two came in the 400, including the bronze Friday night.

Messi may reunite with Neymar at PSG

AFP @ Paris

PLAN A was to stay at Barcelona but after the Catalan club, home for his entire career, ruefully accepted it cannot afford him any more, Lionel Messi was Saturday expected to be about to embark on plan P for Paris.

French fans and media alike were salivating on the effect the superstar's mooted arrival at Paris Saint-Germain would have on the club and the French league as a whole amid reports the Argentinian will end up in the capital.

As France awaited developments with bated breath Barcelona said Messi will hold a press conference at noon Sunday. Sport daily, based in the city, meanwhile insisted that "for the moment, Messi has no offer from any club," PSG included.

After 17 years in Barcelona, where he lifted ten league crowns and four Champions Leagues Messi, 34, would arrive at a PSG desperate to make him the final piece in their jigsaw, the club never having won the European game's premier club honour.

If Messi does join PSG, he will reunite with former Barcelona star Neymar.

Bumrah fifer, Root century leave Test finely poised

AFP @ Nottingham

JASPRIT Bumrah's five-wicket haul left India well-placed to win the first Test despite a fine hundred from England captain Joe Root at Trent Bridge on Saturday. Bumrah took 5-64 in an England second innings where Root's 109 on the fourth day was the centrepiece.

That gave the unorthodox paceman impressive match figures of 9-110 after he had taken 4-46 in a meagre England first innings total of 183, where Root's 64 was again the top score.

At stumps, India were 52-1 in their second innings, needing a further 157 runs to reach a victory target of 209.

Rohit Sharma and Cheteshwar Pujara, who ended the day's play by cover-driving Ollie Robinson for four, were both 12 not out.

Stuart Broad produced a fine ball to have KL Rahul caught behind for a well-made 26 that followed the recalled opener's 84 in India's first-innings 278.

Earlier, a roaring Root was unusually animated in celebrating his 21st Test century, punching the air and his chest. His latest rescue mission — England were 46-2 when he came in — was all the more valuable given his side could not call on star all-rounder Ben Stokes, who has so often bailed out a faltering top order, now his close friend is taking an indefinite break from cricket to "prioritise his mental health".
